Three Lovely Bonnets All in One

NEW YORK Oct. 14.—All the girls in Manhattan seemed to get out of West 141st street in time to see Marmeladze. Edna Brennon and Helene Spearber and Myronne Schmaltz and Eva Deane and Hicote e McBride and the others simply gathered with information this afternoon in the reception of the works.

They told all about blueprints ladies were selling different grades of blue and all the sort of thing when they were asked by a common or garden variety of man to hand out some technical dope about this or that in one or another of that modern inventiveness has just flashed upon a writing woman.

IT WAS A DEAR

Madame In the meantime was quite too busy just then to attend to one of the new trade expansion three dimensional lady skydives to give much time to description but Miss Brennon declared it was a dear old love and a perfect pet all switched into one.

And so simply regulated too explained Miss Brennon eth classically.

You're a swell dame lets suppose and you start out a life now wearing a beautiful creation that looks merely like

Like a hat suggested Miss Schmaltz without hesitation.

That's it-like a hat. Mercel marmelade and without turning home you just unit into some place or have the chauffeur unit into a quiet street or some line for a moment and you tick off the unit of plums and things that form the design that is seen and behold and with it unity larger is but they when they grace you just use the kinder way and the class a dear of a lady of a life was feeling be.

But it was a dear old friend with the mere information needed with the two pieces of the face.

It was so light and all Miss McBride who had had advised her companion but the question insisted.

The words thought tent.

Why you must surely see said Miss Schmaltz at last that it isn't a question of that but a whole thing it is. You may wear one hat in the afternoon and another one in the afternoon and still in the theater and never have to change.

And I will and I will time hence.

The Baroness D'Astomonte, the celebrated Lyric Soprano who has come to America with her husband, had a most trying experience on the other side of the water. The Baroness, said that even during her marriage which was obstructed by her husband's family she has been bitterly persecuted. Recently the Baroness and her mother and brother preferred the singer's appearance at La Scala in Milan by threatening to buy up all the seats in the theater and furnish auditors who would hiss and jeer her. The Baroness who was formerly a Kentucky girl is Jeannette Locke. Will continue her stage success in this country.

The Germans are sending girls to South Africa through the Colonial Society, of which Dr. Hoebel is secretary. It is hoped that the girls will eventually marry soldiers and so make them inclined to remain away from the military control. Several hundred of the maid and well cultural class of girls have been sent there for this purpose.

There needs 46,000 more women. She hasn't one high school man for one thing. About 16 schools were forced to close last year for lack of teachers. And if every man in the State wanted to get married there would have to be a large sized importation of brides. For according to Director Day of the State Census Bureau there are 46,000 more men than women in the State.

The very latest fad would be hard to imagine even in the age of novelties. It is a glove of gold covered with precious stones for the purely vain satisfaction of the one who can afford them. The fortunate owner wears them on a rare hand. So far the spectacle has been confined to the ultra-fashionable watering places

It has seemed to the ordinary man who has viewed the weird and wonderful millinery concoctions adorning the heads of his womanly kind that one such piece of head gear is just enough for one woman to wear—at least at one time.

But he has much to learn. There is more much more to the winter's fashion decree than he ever dreamed of. A new hat has made its appearance beside which the mushroom of the summer months and the much discussed honey moon hat that so resembled the head gear worn by a Chinese cockle pales into insignificance.

The new hat—or perhaps it should be plural—is called the triple in one. It is the creation of Mme. Kennedy of 16 West 41st street New York and bids fair to rival any bit of millinery that has made its appearance on New York streets in a long time.

The triple in one is really three separate hats so worn that when all three are on the head at the same time the effect of only one hat is given. With the removal of the top layer of hat another entirely different in style materials and colors is revealed while in its turn can be removed to show still a third hat far removed from either of its predecessors and means for wear on different occasions.

If in either of the roles of the triple in one when Madame goes out in the early morning wearing a dark velvet hat with steel plates and what seems to be coils of ribbon and a few flowers for a blonde trimming she need not remain here to change to a daunt lingerie affair for her reception later in the day. The top layer can be sent home by messenger.

Then should later if business or a chaperone keeps her down town she has only to unfasten the triple hat lift off the second layer and she is ready for any evening affair.

What I seemed to be the ribbon bonnet on the second I am proved to be a daunt little theater bonnet chic and sporty to me it is almost as it is an idea of a bonnet.

Mme. Kennedy's hats were made originally for Miss Helen Hays who will use them in a little French song in a Broadway show. She either invents or has proven such a success however. Mme. Kennedy believes that the style will become if not permanent at least it is destined to be modeled and are an idea to be just such as it is for themselves not from an economical but from a womanly standpoint.

With these practical ends accomplished Miss Addams turned her attention to the enactment of State and city laws to improve the condition of the districts in which she was working.

The result is a pleasure to all workers in settlement plans and has made this modest but deserving woman a world wide reputation.

Baby Princess Is Center of Great Scandal, Daughter of a Divorced Wife Of a King to Be Brought Here

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 26.—It is rumored here that the Countess Montignoso, former crown princess of Saxony, and Enrico Toselli, to whom she was married in London last week, contemplate going to America. With them they mean, it is said, to take the countess' baby daughter, the Princess Monica Pia, in order to avoid having to surrender her to her father, the king of Saxony.

It is believed that the princess is hidden in Swiss territory, and detectives representing the king of Saxony have arrived at Como, Lugano, and other towns in that region and are attempting to locate the hiding place of the baby princess. It is believed that an attempt may be made to kidnap her rather than risk the possibility of her being carried to the United States.

Never has novelist penned so romantic and piteous a life story as that of the Countess Montignoso. She belongs to one of the most aristocratic families in Europe. She is the mother of a royal family—the mother of a future king. She might have been a queen, receiving the homage of a brilliant court.

GIVES UP ALL FOR LOVE.

But family connections, the children she loved so dearly, and the glory of a throne have all been sacrificed, and a scandal with which the whole world has rung has been caused by this woman's impatience of restraint and her intense love of being loved.

She could not bear the stiff etiquette of a Saxon court. When crown princess, again and again she offended the susceptibilities of the aristocrats who surrounded her. She was irritated beyond measure by the stern rebukes of a husband for whom it is doubtful whether she ever felt any real love.

Alienated from her husband and openly talked about by the court, she finally took the mad plunge, which made her doing public to the world.

She fled, like the heroine of the wildest romance, at midnight—to the Belgian tutor who was to leave her in a few weeks.

The Princess Louise, daughter of the exiled Duke of Tuscany, was a beautiful, brilliant, high spirited young woman. At 16 she was noted for her wit, her knowledge of language, and love of music. She loved outdoor sports, was a fine horsewoman, and painted admirably. Her many accomplishments were universally praised.

MAKES ADVANTAGEOUS MARRIAGE.

Four years after she left school Prince Frederick Augustus, crown prince of Saxony, and now king, fell in love with her and proposed marriage. It was a highly advantageous match, and the girl's parents readily gave their consent. But the girl herself passionately declared that she did not love the prince and could never marry him.

None can tell her reason for changing her mind. None can say what family pressure was brought to bear upon the young and brilliant girl—though it may be guessed. But, be the causes what they may, she eventually consented to the marriage, and the couple were married at Vienna on November 21, 1891, amid many manifestations of public rejoicing.

For some years—at any rate so far as the outer world knew—the royal couple lived happily together. Several children were born to them, two of whom died, and whatever else may have been urged against her, there is no doubt that the princess was a most devoted mother.

NOT BOUND BY ETIQUETTE.

It was in 1902, nearly eleven years after the marriage, that it became generally known that there were dissensions between the prince and his wife. The trouble was at first said to be about her failure to sustain the dignity of her rank as crown princess.

Another cause of dissension between the crown prince of Saxony and his wife was her expressing approval of the action of her brother, the Archduke Leopold, who Run the Gamut of Heart Throbs in a Scandal of the Old World.

No romance of recent times has so stirred Europe as that of Marie Antoinette Louise, daughter of Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria and divorced wife of King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, who has just been married to Sig. Enrico Toselli, an Italian pianist. Royal birth and marriage, elopement, divorce, and remarriage, with a never ceasing fight for children, all play a part in the romance. The pictures are grouped as follows: 1. The woman in the case and her little daughter, the Princess Monica Pia, the seventh and last child, who is believed to be hidden in Switzerland and may be brought to the United States by her mother and stepfather. 2. The newly wedded pair photographed in front of the Registrar's office, London, just after the ceremony. 3. Countess Montignoso and Giron, the Belgian tutor with whom she eloped when she was crown princess of Saxony. 4. King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, who obtained a divorce after his wife renounced all her royal rights. 5. The six living children of Mme. Toselli. All except the Princess Monica live with their father in Dresden. In the order in which they appear they are: Prince George, Prince Frederick, Prince Ernest, Princess Margaret, Princess Marie and Princess Monica.

resigned his title and prerogatives to become a plain citizen.

Then in the midst of this unhappiness came the scandal. The princess' name was associated with that of M. Giron, the Belgian tutor. Their relations are said to have been discovered by a lady at the court. The tutor was ordered to leave. Then, after he did so, the princess fled to him at Zurich, and they went together to Geneva.

The real truth about that flight may never be known, but the generally accepted account of it told of the princess leaving her husband's palace at Dresden and going to her father at Salzburg. She told her father of her sorrows and begged him to consent to a divorce. Her brother, the Archduke Leopold, sided with her. But her father refused. Then the desperate princess, accompanied by her brother, ran away from their father's palace to Zurich, to be joined by M. Giron.

DESERTED BY THE TUTOR.

The princess renounced her titles, all her royal prerogatives, without a protest. But her great sorrow was the loss of her beloved children. She wept bitterly. She implored to be allowed to see them. It was rumored that she attempted suicide.

Then after a few weeks Giron left her—to avoid, it was stated, unnecessary trouble in connection with the negotiations between the former princess and the court. The flighty Belgian never returned.

Taking the title of the Countess of Montignoso, she retired to a villa of her father's near Florence.

Her greatest sorrow during this time was the loss of her children. Communication with them was denied her, and in 1904 the unhappy mother made a desperate attempt to see her little ones. Heavily veiled, she journeyed secretly to Dresden and tried to enter the royal palace. But she was recognized by the officials, who were adamant. The king was away and their instructions were imperative. Weeping bitterly, the mother was escorted away by the police.

And, strange though it may sound, the Dresden people cheered her to the echo. This extraordinary woman had never lost her hold on the hearts of the Saxons, and they wildly applauded her attempt to see her children.

She did not see them until 1906 and then, only in the presence of court officials. This she has never forgiven her husband. Even now she speaks bitterly of the fact that she was not allowed to see them alone.

CHILD IN DISPUTE IS BORN.

Meanwhile the princess had been divorced. The King of Saxony was known to be dying. It could not be allowed that she should have the faintest right to the title of Queen of Saxony, and the proceedings were hurried forward, terminating in February, 1903.

In May of that year a child was born to the Countess of Montignoso, and christened Monica.

The Saxon court attempted to gain possession of this child, and a fierce contest followed, which has lasted for years. But the countess clung to it with desperate fondness, and even now declares that she and her present husband will not let the little one go, though, under a family agreement, it is understood that the little princess should be delivered to the king of Saxony next May.

In the following years the countess led a quiet life in Italy, the south of France, and in the Isle of Wight, where she spent many happy months with her little ones.

LENT NIGHTIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Alma K. Mears, a prepossessing young woman, was the star witness yesterday before Justice Grisham and the jury trying this suit for absolute divorce brought by Charlton R. Burnett, the son of a wealthy Pennsylvania Congressman, against his pretty young wife, Belle. Burnett names as co-respondent Arthur C. Humphrey, president and general manager of Humphrey & Co., brokers, 27 William street. Both Mrs. Burnett and Mr. Humphrey deny the charges.

Before Mrs. Mears told her story, Mrs. Julia McCaville, cook in a boarding-house in the neighborhood of Riverside Drive, testified that she had heard Mrs. Burnett call Mr. Humphrey "Deary" and "Delight"; that Mrs. Burnett was known as a divorced woman and that she was accustomed to stand at her window as Mr. Humphrey left the house, waving her hands and throwing kisses to him. She had seen Mrs. Burnett receive Mr. Humphrey in her room, the woman in a light kimono, the broker in his shirt sleeves.

William A. Perkins, a young man, said he lived at 142 East Fifty-fifth street and was a clerk in the office of Lawyer Keating. He said that when he called at the flat in which Mrs. Burnett resided, Humphrey, he said, had threatened to knock his head off and called him a vile name.

"Did you say you would strike him?" asked Mr. Burnett's lawyer.

"No," replied the witness with deliberation. "I thought I would reserve it for future consideration."

Mrs. Mears told the jury that in 1904 when she resided in New Rochelle with her husband, Mrs. Burnett occupied an adjoining room. A young man called on the Mears and Mrs. Mears, her husband, Mrs. Burnett and the young man dined together. Later Mrs. Burnett retired with the young man.

GAVE HIM A NIGHTSHIRT.

"Do you know what this young man wore that night? Did he get an article of clothing from your husband?" asked counsel for Burnett.

"I gave it to him. It was a night-shirt," said the witness.

"Did you see them in the morning?" "They came through my room. The nightshirt was returned by Mrs. Burnett."

"Were Mrs. Burnett and the young man elated or exhilarated?"

"Yes, we all were."

"Did you hear the young man during the night?"

"They closed the door," said the witness.

She said she and her husband were quite friendly with Mrs. Burnett and they reluctantly admitted that she was being sued for divorce and didn't know her husband's present whereabouts. Mrs. Mears again asked about the meeting of Mrs. Burnett and the mysterious young man, said it was a matter of indifference to her and that she was not responsible for what other people did.

"The moral aspect of the thing didn't strike you at all?"

"Not at all."

"What did you drink on the night you speak of?"

"Apricot brandy."

Mrs. Mears was uncertain as to the quantity they drank, but thought it was a quart. She said she did not know that half a pint would put a person in a comatose condition. Asked if she knew the name of the young man she had told about, she replied in the negative.

A young man of businesslike appearance arose in the court room and looked at Mrs. Mears.

"Is that the man?" asked counsel.

"Yes," replied the witness in a whisper. The trial will be resumed this morning.

HORRORS! DREADFUL! THIS NEWS THE POMPADOUR MEETS ITS FATE

Cruel Ultimatum of Less Hair or No Job Goes Forth in Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, Oct. 26.—The cruel ultimatum sent forth by the heads of Pittsburg's department stores that the young women in their employ must either give up their pompadours or else give up their positions, has caused no end of concern among that element of independent American femininity which has always regarded itself as free to do as it saw fit in the matter of the arrangement of its coiffure.

For Pittsburg has long made itself a center of attraction for a curious and expectant outside world, and in consequence those young women who are addicted to the tall, globular hirsute are fearful lest the crusade spread.

MAY SPREAD OVER COUNTRY.

In fact, one may momentarily expect bulletins from all parts of the country announcing that Mr. So and So of the veil department in the great store of So and So & Co., has issued an order summarily calling in the pompadour and declaring a vogue in plain, parted-in-the-middle hair, surrounded by wreaths of purple or milky aigrettes, studded with tiny rhinestones that the newest creations might be properly shown to the shoppers.

Or perhaps Mrs. So and So might not be astonished at any moment to have the head of some big store call up her intelligence bureau and send in an order such as this:

"Send us down immediately half a dozen blondes for the black goods counter. Have them with their hair matted close to the scalp and set off with a black jet formed in butterfly effects."

The cause of the Pittsburg crusade is attributed to the rat, which, the employers declare, puffs out the fore part of the hirsute adornment in such a manner as to cast shadows on ribbons and delicate shades when the customers are vainly attempting to match them.

British Women Now Eligible to Hold High Office

The British house of commons, before adjournment, passed the bill making women eligible as town and county councillors and aldermen, says an English writer. The bill had already passed the house of lords and is now a law. This measure, which in America would be looked upon as wildly revolutionary, has attracted less notice from the press of this country than the passage of the deceased wife's sister bill, which merely grants English widowers a privilege possessed by widowers in the United States for many years past. The new law as to woman's eligibility has a wide scope and is really an important reform.

And on Mondays many of the girls who washed their hair Sundays can't do a blessed thing with it, and instead of catering to the wants of the buyers they are continually standing before the mirrors

NOW EVERY WOMAN MAY HAVE BEAUTIFUL HANDS AND ARMS

So many requests for advice regarding the hands and arms have reached me that I am constrained to offer the following general directions for all who are distressed about these parts of the body, says Mrs. Lenore Lennox.

TO HAVE PRETTY HANDS.

An orange stick must be used on them daily.

Carefully loosen the cuticle around the nails.

Do not prod back the skin until it forms an unsightly ridge.

Use a file to shape the nails, as scissors have a tendency to make them brittle.

It is of advantage to rub cold cream on and around the nails at night.

Particular care should be taken to dry the hands thoroughly after washing.

Wiping the fingers with a downward motion helps to give them the tapering effect so much desired.

TO PREVENT RED ARMS.

Red arms are always a source of trouble to their owners, and if they represent a pressing anxiety the first care should be that of improving the general circulation by keeping the extremities as warm as possible, indulging in sufficient exercise, taking good nourishing food, and avoiding constricted clothing or damp garments.

As regards the arms themselves, the experiment may be tried with capital effect by washing them night and morning with a warm lather made of good soap, and rinsing them afterwards in lukewarm water, when a cut lime should be rubbed over the skin until a fresh and invigorating reaction sets in.

OATMEAL AND WATER.

An alternative method which can be recommended is that of applying a paste of oatmeal and water. The finest Scotch meal should be used, a handful being stirred with a wooden stick, a teaspoonful of borax, and a little ammonia added and the whole well mixed. This should be allowed to cool, then applied to the arms with a complexion brush, and the paste allowed to dry on. It should then be wiped off with a damp sponge and the arm dried with a soft towel.

Sweet oil makes an excellent skin softener, and will be found always helpful in cases where the hands have become coarsened by the action of hard water or manual labor. A small basin should be filled with the oil, slightly warmed, and the hands held in it for a few minutes, after which they should be rubbed dry, one against the other, in front of the fire.

A little warm lemon juice, applied just after washing the hands, is always recommended as an effective bleaching agent, a better effect being gained when a little chloride of lime is, in addition, added to the water in which the hands are washed.

"IT'S A CRIME" Says "TO WED A TITLE"

World's Richest Woman Would Disown Son If He Married for Title.

"Girl Who Seeks Husband Abroad Deserves what She Gets, and More."

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—"I am glad Gladys Vanderbilt is not my daughter. There are thousands of honest young workmen in the United States good enough to be any girl's husband. The girls who go to Europe to get their husbands deserve what they get—and more. If my son married a foreign woman because the union would bring him a title, I would disown him."

These statements and many others were made the other day to a reporter in a remarkable interview with Hetty Green, the richest woman in the world, en route by train from New York to Newport.

The woman whose name is known the world over set in a day coach—riding second class with men who tell with their hands and who probably wouldn't know a bond from a check, but who, because they know how to wield a pickaxe well, have the respect of the famous woman financier.

TALKS ON MANY QUESTIONS.

Mrs. Green, bolting back in her seat, smiled at the reporter, who had practically "cornered" her. She discussed, with remarkable vigor, marriage, divorce, finance, the condition of the country, and touched slightly upon the notorious crimes of the Traction

Trust.

Here is the interview, verbatim:

"What do you think about the marriage of American girls to counts and petty princes, and dukes, and lords of the Old World, Mrs. Green?"

"Well," she replied, with a twinkle in her eye, "really I know more about discounts than I do about counts."

Mrs. Green then made the remarks quoted above.

"I recently gave my son $5000 with which to buy a new automobile, as a birthday gift," she continued, "but I stipulated that it should be of American make. That's how truly American I am, and I say this without egotism."

TITLE HUNTERS NEED GUARD- IANS.

The mother who will pay $5,000,000 for a title for her daughter should not expect to get a son-in-law of any account for the same sum. Further than this, the woman who will pay five millions for the son-in-law should have a guardian appointed to care for her.

"But, talking about myself, if you want to know, I am going to Newport for a few days of rest—to get away from business for a short time."

"Then you have not retired from business as has been reported?" the reporter asked.

"When I get out of business," Mrs. Green responded with a smile, "my work in this world shall have been done. You see, I have been busy forty-two years, and work has made me young and happy."

HAVE TO HAVE MONEY TO BE HAPPY.

"It is not the money I am so greedy for," she responded. "It is happiness. We have to have money to be happy. When I found it necessary to go into business to save what my father left me, I gave up all idea of ever securing a social position."

"You know, I am a Quaker, and the Quakers have a saying that if you burn the candle both night and day it won't last. From that you can see why I have not gone in for society and business together."

"Now that you have reached an age when you can look back over a long period of life—a longer period than you can expect for the future—is the wealth that you have accumulated as satisfying as would be the social position that half your wealth could buy?" was asked.

"If I had not remained in business," said Mrs. Green, with a grim smile, yet a proud mien, "I would not have had the fun of whipping Collis P. Huntington, Joseph H. Choate and others of their clique."

WON FIGHTS WITH THE GREAT.

"I have had fights with some of the Did you ever hear of any of them greatest financial men in the country, getting ahead of Hetty Green?"

"You see, I love to work because it keeps me out of mischief. Then it keeps me hustling to prevent the railroad and trust sharks from getting what I have worked so hard to accumulate."

Discussing the disparity between business methods of today and years ago, Mrs. Green said:

"Business is not conducted in the same way today as it was forty years ago. Then a man's word was as good as his bond. Today, you should have good glasses when you inspect his bond."

"Forty years ago a common latch with a string on the outside was sufficient to protect your home. Today, if you have a piece of silverware in the house, special policemen are not always sufficient to prevent it from being stolen.

"don't you find it distasteful to deal with men of that kind?"

SEEKS THE BEST IN EVERY BODY.

"Ah!" she replied significantly, "There's a difference—when you practice different methods, I never look for the worst in people. I try to see the best that is in them."

"In all of my business career I have never done an individual a wrong—an intentional wrong. If I have wronged anybody it is only because I have neglected to do something that was in my power to do, and which might have helped them. There is nothing shady about any of my business transactions. I have always tried to live up to the faith of my ancestors."

"Have you the same faith now in your Creator, Mrs. Green, that you had when you first entered business?"

"Aye, yes. And more. The rough side of life I have seen has made me more tender than a life of ease would have made me."

"How do you regard the financial outlook?"

"We safely passed the period when there was danger of panic. Money may be tight again about the first of the year, but I do not look for serious business embarrassment."

"What do you think of the traction exposures?"

REFUSES TO TALK ON TRACTION

Mrs. Green smiled slightly, hesitated, and then said, with vigor:

"I am a woman and a lady, and what I may say about this would hardly be becoming to me. I decline to discuss the trust exposures, as I form the only trust that I am, interested in."

At this point, the train reached Wicford Junction, Conn., and Mrs. Green alighted with the reporter to take the boat for Newport.

"May I help you with the baggage, or do anything for you?" the newspaper man asked.

"Bless you, my boy, no!" she replied. "Baggage. Tut! I have on two dresses and two shawls, and I guess they'll do me while I am up here resting."

"But won't you let me call a cab for you, Mrs. Green?"

There was another "tut," and the richest woman in the world wrapped her shawls about her and bade good-bye to the interviewer.

"I'll walk to the street car, and if there isn't one on time, I'll walk. Good night, young man," she said.

And the richest woman in the world disappeared in the gloom, happy, contented, with the demeanor of one who never had a care in the world.

Young Bride Left Solitary When Husband Takes All Furniture.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—That her husband gave her nothing to eat but eggs for three weeks, and compelled her to sit up all night upon a box in an unfurnished house, was the complaint of Mrs. Adrian Bradley, a bride of less than four months, of 242 Ridge avenue, when she appeared in the Central Police Court yesterday against her husband and his brother, James, of Eleventh street, above Race.

The bride, who is petite and with a voice like that of a child of 15 years, accused her husband of having deserted her, neglecting to provide for her support. She accused his brother of assault and battery.

Mrs. Bradley was married on June 24, and she and her husband lived happily together until September 21, when they quarreled because her husband and his brother went to the latter's room and barred her out. Mrs. Bradley forced her way into the room with a key, and she testified, her brother-in-law struck her. Her husband, she swore, afterward left her, taking the furniture. She was left alone in the house all night with nothing but a bed to recline or sit upon. She said she traveled as far as from her husband, and that for three weeks before he stopped paying the expenses of their home he gave her nothing to eat but eggs.

OAKLAND THEATERS PLAN FOR A BIG WEEK

MANY NEW BILLS WILL BE SEEN AT PLAYHOUSES

"In Old Kentucky" to Play a Week at the Macdonough---Orpheum, Liberty and Idora Park Have Attractions.

[illegible]

In Old Kentucky had been tried out over the year by a stock company. Mr. Lutz, control playing in his first in Paul the first part of the year, has been given there in that original cast there are players and that they are a part of themselves the Paul, declared Julia, that the day of her lover, he is and the charming Marion Lutz who played Madge and Miss Selden with a fine dress among the men were Louis Jones who was the Colonel Sam, and D. H. Hille, George Lake, son father of the present, and the mother and Robert Fink and W. H. Ellwood, a well known leading man of the day.

At the very beginning in that first company, the play did not come out in Old Kentucky until the formation of the company which was to come to the city with the play and they decided the future of the melodrama and the old Kentucky on the solid and new to come.

roadway. Some called her the "Queen of the South" in America. Now she is known as the world famous comedienne of the singing of the title of Avenue A. She made her fame in every big city in the country. Oklahoma has never had a singer so famous as Miss Fay's stage work and it will be given a revelation this afternoon when the actress makes her debut in this city.

Search second to Miss Fay in point of interest is a big massive spectacle called "A Night with the Poets" which will be staged this afternoon at the Orpheum. There will be nearly a dozen people taking part in the production. Elaborate scenic effects will be used. The poems of James Whitcomb Riley will be read by J. R. Reeve, a star of the aggregation and the characters of Riley's poems will be impersonated by skilled actors. The whole making a performance of unusual interest both to the great plain people and those who are especially interested in literature.

Direct from Chicago have the Four Dainty Dancers who have been a sensation the Hippodrome in the Parisian capital. They are pitifully dressed graceful movements accomplished in the terse classicism of the modern sport which is provided by Dixon and Fields to the original Cernan sailors. They are amusing fellows with a big budget of funny stunts.

Betty & Burns are musical artists who perform on a variety of instruments and sing a variety of songs. Their act is a variety of songs.

The eight Vassar Girls whose dancing and music has been a sensation at the Orpheum during the last week will be returned to their act by the conclusion of their first season on the new bill.

Mr. Yonah will produce her sketch "The Lingerie" and Lew Hawking, the famous minstrel will have a new lot of funny songs and sayings.

There will be new Orpheum pictures on the bill.

IDAORA PARK

For another week, The Belle of New York will keep up its popular run at the Iridora. It is one of the most acceptable pieces ever put on at the popular opera house and deserves the public appreciation that has been given it. The set goes with such nice spirit is largely to be seen for the success with which it has met during the past week, but aside from the capable work of the Iridora company, the piece has an abundance of men. There are a number of good songs and they are sung with the life and feeling that first made them so popular. Throughout the production the principals are in their finest fettle, supported at times by a pretty and vivacious chorus.

Sybil Faye has had a week since her return to the Iridora company that shows how many friends she has among her

OAKLAND ORPHEUM

In older times the city press agencies used to take their brains for big words in order to describe an extraordinary attraction and their proprietors might have secured for the greatest show in the world, and apparently the Orpheum management is in similar straits this week.

There are so many remarkable and attractive new features that are scheduled for appearance during the coming week at the Orpheum that the ordinary descriptive terms are found to be inadequate to properly express the worth and merit of the Louisville bill for the coming week.

The theater goes to Oakland took with it the best of what was first put on at the Twenty-third street playhouse parking lot and the new bill while critics deprecate the show as one so far and away from the city that what the public might have expected. This chorus of praise, however, is destined during the last month of the tour to sink of the coin in the Orpheum.

The office has been testimony to the generally poor of Oakland. Between the neighboring communities on this side of the bay, from among who has been given an ovation when she appeared in the stage. Doris Goodwin the dainty coquette has also remained at the crest of the wave of popularity.

The Belle of New York she is a French girl. She sings well whenever the opportunity is offered.

Of the other women in the cast there is little. Miss McNeill who has been taken out of the chorus to play the part of the Bower, tough girl. The character could not be more acceptably filled.

Miss McNeill is irresistible when she dances with Walter de Leon in the scene entitled The Belle of New York. As de Leon himself is not to be overlooked in mention of this particular song and dance.

Nettie Feglow one of the new members of the company has made a favorable impression and she has had sufficient stage experience to give her grace and grace before the footlights and she sings when the part gives her a chance.

Ferris Hartman keeps the audience laughter whenever he has the stage. As presid nt of the Young Men's Rescue League he makes the most of a very funny part. Hartman's costume would start a laugh even without his droolieries.

Thomas Persse and Wallace Brownlow are good and so are Joe Fogarty and Fred Kavanaugh two of the old reliables of the company. In all The Belle of New York is a very entertaining production and one that should be seen before it goes glaze to The Circuit.

Give a week from next Monday evenings

LIBERTY PLAYHOUSE

The patrons of Ye Liberty Playhouse will have the opportunity this coming week of enjoying one of the very best American comedies ever written. The Bishop players will be seen in a production of "The American Lord" commencing Monday night, and there will follow a week of rare fun at the popular theatre.

"The American Lord" was written by George H. Broadhurst and Charles T. Dazey, two American playwrights whose fame has been established by a number of successful works. Broadhurst's name, no doubt, is still in the minds of the local public for it was he who wrote "The Moon of the Hour" the powerful political drama that took San Francisco by storm and played in the hour of her distress. Furthermore Broadhurst has written "What Happened to Jones" "The Wrong Man" "Wright and Why Smith Left Home" and all comedies that guarantee the fun to be found in "The American Lord."

Dazey is the author of "In Old Kentucky" and several other successful plays.

hence a work in which he and Broadhurst collaborated and put their best efforts ought to be worthy the great popularity it attained when first given to the public. As a starring play for William H. Crane, The American Lord made a great hit and enabled that distinguished actor to add to his laurels.

In the role Henry Shumer will perfectly suggest the character is that of a rugged American of the West who detests everything that is not American and loses no opportunity to make his very decided dislikes known. Shumer has just the right temperament for the part and should put into it the bluster that is so most distinguished trait.

The story is one of interest to an American audience. It begins in a little town of South Dakota where John Drumster is the biggest man in that section of the country. He owns the town boss of the town owns the large part of the surrounding territory and runs affairs to suit himself. He is a rugged Westerner, typical of the Westerner of fiction. He has made a fortune and granted an ambition that came with wealth by having himself elected as one of his State's representatives in Congress. All he thought of all his views are fanatically a-foreign. For him America holds everything and everybody worth while.

Such a character gives wide range to the novel. The first situation that comes to Bruester comes when his daughter wants to marry a young Englishman living a neighbor. Then suddenly there arrives in the West a lawyer from England who informs Bruester that he has fallen heir to title and estates in England and must immediately go abroad and establish his rights.

The old American is astounded by the new but cannot see his way clear to give up the privileges that belong to Congressmen—that of distributing favors and seeds among his farmer friends and to pay to ride on railroad passes without paying fares and the honor of having eloquent speeches never spoken printed in the Congressional Record with comments on their effect. Compared with such prerogatives a position in the English peerage appears to him an empty honor not worth bothering about. Then he is reminded about too richly of the states that go with the title and is eventually persuaded that he must go to England.

Then the fun reaches its climax with the appearance of the bluff Western and his following of cowboys in English society. Many ludicrous situations arise that keep the audience convulsed with laughter.

Other than Shinner the man is cast for the week are Henry C Mortimer, George Friend, George Lunders Stevens, E I Bennison, H M Shaw, P Webster, Robert Harrison, Jack Sheehan and Raymond Walburn. There are only four women but they are in roles that will keep them busy and hold a large share of the interest and attention of the audience. Miss Iszetta Jewell has an opportunity for excellent comedy work as George Cooper. Madeline Maxwell as a C. Cooper will be entrusted with

The interpretation of characters that mean much to the successful presentation of the charming comedy.

The play is one that can be handsomely staged and the opportunity offered was fully exploited. The settings were splendidly worked out and made to harmonize perfectly with the spirit of the breezy piece.

THE MILAN GRAND OPERA SEASON

Society as well as music lovers isagoged over the prospects of another season of grand opera in Oakland. The brilliant success of last years season with the San Carlo Company has encouraged Manager Will Greenbaum to attempt another season and this week has arranged with Manager Will Blum to present the complete Milan Opera Company numbering one hundred and twenty five people for four performances at the Liberty Playhouse. The expense will be enormous in addition to the salaries etc. of the organization it will be necessary to pay the regular stock three nights work.

The Miller Company recently played the Marican Company engagement in San Francisco in the most favorable conditions existing and managed to attract many thousands of patrons to the Chinese Theater. At present the company is meeting with great success at the Auditorium in Los Angeles.

Although but four performances will be given here the repertoire has been so arranged that all of the great stars will appear during the engagement. There are four really fine prima donnas, two contraltos, three tenors, three baritone, three basses, one buffo, half a dozen actors for small parts, three orchestral conductors, a chorus of about forty, an orchestra of forty and a corps de ballet.

At the opening performance Monday night November 11 Lucia will be seen with Mme Adolina Padovani in the title role. Ashton Stevens of the Evansville and Jas Crawford of the Call both claimed Padovani the greatest coloratura singer heard here since Patti.

being the two performances Friday evening the first commencing at 7:30 and second at 9:15 p. m. with matinee at 2:30 p. m. The most interesting performance will be the new play "The Wreck of the Robert's Company" who are cast from the past will introduce for the first time the farce entitled "A Dark Drama".

The Citygeons a family of four are the main attraction. They will render the popular and classical selections vocal and instrumentally with Jassett Jack Elliott assisted by Eddie Blum for a period of twenty minutes. Present an act that is full of heart interest and many situations causing laugh from start to finish entitled "Miner Maneuver". Dave Farb for the time on this coast and direct from the Mozart circuit is a Hebrew come of versatile ability. Another act is a play acted by Leonard and Thorton. The pictures which will be shown on the cinematograph are a novel themselves and are imported from France by the management for their own exclusive use. The price of admissions will be 10c 20c and 30c for the evening performances and 10c and 20c for the day ones.

THE BELL

A program of eight acts with all distinctly different is to be the offering the Bell Theatre has for the coming week. There is no surety the offering will only be attractive and entertaining. It will also be sufficiently varied to even the most radical vaudeville fan. The Bell has a reputation for giving cash shows and the program for next week is to be well up to the standard. Leading the list will be the Chinese troupe of Japanese acrobats. The troupe includes six men and they give a sensational sixteen minutes of juggling, balancing and contortion work.

Next will come the three Kuhns ougbt. It is one of the cleverest sketches in vaudeville and will add much to the attractiveness of the Bell's show.

Another clever act is to be supplied by Miss Dorothy Lurie vocalist and character change artist. She is a young woman who possesses the dual attributes of ability and beauty and she will take favor with Oakland and the tourists.

John Dempsey, excellent comedian and dancer, will entertain in his own d way and will seek to drive away the blues. Two motion pictures made of peevish for the Bell will complete bill.

In the near future the Bell is to feature Augie and his trained lions in a that farctionalism has no peer in vaudeville. Several other big future acts are to be offered the Oakland theatergoers during the next few weeks.

The Bell theater has just been given a new dressing room. The extra for his painted the interior walls have been decorated and heavy carpets have been laid throughout adding greatly to the coziness of the pithouse.

NOVELTY THEATER

The Novelty Theater will next week

be a thing on the top wave of popularity. Manly Smith promises to show next week starting in with the Monday matinee. Every act on the bill will be changed. The best feature of next week will be the act of the four young men, as New York's best humorists, singers and they come to the Novelties from triumphs of a two weeks engagement in San Francisco. This quintet unlike others is composed of the men and one woman and this combination is said to not excite results. The voices blend most beautifully. Three Azards at also on next week's bill and they will be found to be star athletes and ground rumbles. Galliano and Bruce presenting the Coon and the Chinese will no doubt bring a ripple of laughter to the faces of those who attend as they are heralded as comedians, singers and dancers of no mean ability. America's prettiest women show Pansy Manning. Davey is also listed for appearance next week. Mr and Mrs C. Bartlett will present a comedy (King entitled "Willie of the Wilderness," is full of witty sayings and good comedy that has not yet failed to charm the laughs and encores. Miss V. Victory, the well known imitating singer, comedienne comes to the city for a week's engagement and present her latest in its entirety. The same as created so much talk and interest in New York, London and elsewhere. The above announcement is and the reels of Impromptu motion pictures of the same nature, will be shown to make up a clever vaudeville show, which should attract the regular patron, many more to the cozy little New Theatre on Broadway.

Romco Frick the American baritone making his first visit to the Pacific coast and fledging from reports is in apple voice.

Frick is one of the very foremost of younger generation of singers and appears in most prominent centers: Europe and America.

For the famous Bohemian Club artist will sing the leading role next season in their forest play presented usually at their grove on Russian River.

Frick goes to Los Angeles next week to begin his season and is booked for recital in Oakland November 25.

GENTRY BROTHERS

One of the oddest and most characteristic features of the Gentry Brothers Shows Limited which are to exhibit in Oakland November 1, 2 and 4 is the baby carriage department.

During the two decades the Gentrys have been before the public with a trained animal shows they have entertained "a women and children and result has been the creation of a theater in which the juveniles are in the

From this action arises the question which shows a little carriage department in a department as peculiar as the General Store (see Monday).

In the afternoon Mother and aunts sisters and nurses in the store come to the front door of the Gentry house where the baby carriage under ropes take the precious load a car comes and leave the empty baby carriage in place of a young woman in uniform who says the name of Irene.

The little girl, last in followed the girl in a maid who takes the guests hats at the darkroom door. These ladies mistake in recounting headpieces front door with the baby carriage and each baby carriage owner and through the owners comes after the information in dozens of clamor for their particular baby carriage in chorus front door has never known to get mixed.

In the course of a long season the door has become an expert in the matter of baby carriage makes and their experience has perfected a baby carriage of his own which he declares

He picked up a small compass and tried to ease in the pocket. "I'm afraid I will convey the lady's love or heard of. When she comes he is going to the manufacturer and expects to make a million before the robins nest again. I think he has it on, however, and that there will never be any baby made in his family."

Another San Francisco Firm Locates In Oakland

During the past week Wolff & Hayley of San Francisco have opened a branch store in this city and bid for a share of the patronage of the smart dress among the ladies in this side the bay. Mr. Wolfe has long since been convinced that a store of the class which caters for his own would be plified by the whims of Clark and the opening of such a store he had planned had only been postponed through the inability to secure a suitable location. Now this point has been passed. Wolfe has opened on Third street a store catering solely to women and carrying a stock of the latest fashions, of all the latest classes goods, novelties etc. that the heart of a woman could desire. In the heart of the shopping district we find a store of its own kind. Wolf's Oakland store is certainly a class by itself.

COUNT TO REDEEM
FAMILY FROM POVERTY

(By JOSEPH FRIEDMANN)
BUDAPEST, Oct. 26.—Lazlo Szchenyi

When a young man about to wed the richest heiress in the United States notifies his relatives in his native Hungary as to the betrothal, the news is received with interest. The betrothal is a great event in the life of the young man and his family.

CHINESE MUST ANSWER TO SUPERIOR COURT
Louie Bing, the last of the quartet of Chinese who were arrested for the murder of Lee Hong in the Chinese long war on August 30, was bound over for the action of the Superior Court by Judge Smith this morning. His trial of alleged accomplices have all been held previously to the Superior Court. The complaint against Louie Bing was sworn to by Louie Ton.

YOUTH CANNOT STAY AT HOME

According to the story given the police by his mother, fourteen-year-old Arthur Orr is a chronic runaway. Mrs. Orr, who lives at 90 Harrison street, applied to Chief Wilson today for information concerning her son, who disappeared from home several weeks ago.

Yesterday a messenger boy, who is a friend of young Orr, told the mother he had had a letter from Mendota, which stated that Arthur and a companion had been arrested there. Chief Wilson has communicated with the authorities in Mendota to ascertain if the report is true.

DECLARES WILDCAT BANKS END FOREVER IN NEW YORK

Stealing Be Called Stealing Henceforth

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Wildcat banking is ended forever in New York city. The day is done when a discretionary pool could hide under the title of trust company. Great as has been the disaster of the past week, the good results accomplished have been worth the trouble. When the public mind turns to a caution of sanity again, it will find the financial institutions sound. The trust companies have been warned back into the clearing house from which they never should have been permitted to escape. Stealing will be called stealing henceforth in Wall street, whether it is done on a small or large scale.

If the savings of the people in the banks have really been in danger that danger is passed, for discretionary pool managers are more concerned now about returning the plunder and escaping jail than about anything else.

WILL FORCE OTHER CITIES.
The use of the clearing house certificates was begun today and will continue for several weeks, or until the situation is back to normal conditions. Use of the certificates in New York will compel Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis to use them also. The result will be an artificial inflation of the currency until such time as these certificates are retired with gold or until the people return their money to the banks.

One logical result will be an immediate advance in the stock market. Banks will not be compelled to so drastic with borrowers and forced liquidation will be absent. The improvement in the market will be checked, however, by the first reduction in the dividend of an important railroad, and after there should be heavy liquidation.

DOWN DISHONEST ONES.
The breathing spell will last long enough for the public to cool off, and they realize that the country is rich enough to withstand the storm. If depositors will put their money back in the banks, and if honest men will put their dishonest comrades out of the bank directors the further sweep of the downward wave will be orderly and without disaster. It is wrong to pretend that a reaction in business is not coming, for the reasons are too plain to be ignored.

DAVS MARKET.
The total number of shares of stocks sold today was 224,603 as against 246,000 last year.

The total value of par bonds sold today was $2,382,000 as against $649,000 last year.

Stocks opened slightly higher today and the improvement continued throughout the session.

In London Americans were nearly two points higher than in New York but it was impossible for international brokers to take advantage of this disparity of prices because the foreign exchange market was too plain to be ignored.

ST. PHILIP'S GUILD WILL HOLD BAZAAR
FRUITVALE, Oct. 26.—The guild of St. Philip's Episcopal mission will hold its annual Christmas bazaar at the Guild Hall on Nicol avenue and Cap street on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings, October 30 and 31.

BRYAN ADDRESSES LEAGUE.
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—In an address on the "Individual and the State," before the League of Political Education, W. J. Bryan declared that whatever relief comes to society or to the race must come from the deliberate action of those who are not crushed by poverty and to whom the mere struggle for existence demands all the exertions of their minds.

PLAN WIDENING AND OPENING OF STREETS

An ordinance will probably be introduced in the Council before very long providing for the opening and widening of streets running north and south between Broadway and Telegraph avenue. The principal thoroughfares to be widened are College avenue, from the Berkeley line to Manila avenue, and Manila avenue from Moss avenue to College avenue. The object of these alterations will be to avoid the steep hill at the junction of Broadway and College avenue.

JUVENILE COURT TRIES MANY YOUNG OFFENDERS

Judge Melvin's Friday afternoon Juvenile Court, with seven offenses at the bar and with the little juvenile courtroom packed by the families of children who had been brought to book, had a busy day. Three colored boys were on the calendar, of whom one, Lionel Seines, an amateur lunaway, was placed during his trial in the Boys' and Girls' Society of these boys up for persistent truancy, two were allowed on probation and the third, Stephen Sparks, was committed during minority to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society.

Window.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Mrs. James T. Brown, 41, of 1015 S. Main, died at 10:30 p. m. today of burns received when a gas stove exploded in her apartment. Her maid, Catherine, 35, of the same household, was also burned and jumped through the window.

SEVERE TO RESCUE
The fire broke out in the kitchen at 10:15 p. m. Mrs. Brown was in the room at the time and was badly burned. She was taken to the hospital, but died later. The maid, Catherine, was also burned and jumped through the window. The fire was caused by a gas stove which exploded.

WRAPPED IN RUG
Quick as a flash Mrs. Brown seized the rug and wrapped herself in it. She was then taken to the hospital, but died later. The fire was caused by a gas stove which exploded.

WALK SPITTING

Police Chief Instructs Patrolmen to Enforce Ordinance.

Chief of Police Wilson has issued orders to all the patrolmen in the city to enforce with renewed strictness the ordinance prohibiting spitting on the sidewalks. A number of complaints have been received lately about the condition of the sidewalks. Citizens who pass through that district daily claim that crowds of men who frequent the sidewalks, reeling with tobacco juice, are a disgrace to the city. A special watch will be kept for violators of the anti-spitting law in that portion of town.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—In a keen analysis of the financial and industrial situation, Andrew Carnegie today described the events of the past few days as a clearing house cyclone, and he declared that the recovery will be rapid because of the immense resources of the country and warmly upheld President Roosevelt's policies as essential to the protection of the public.

The President, he said, stands today where he stood for years, and where it is to be hoped he will stand until our laws protect honest investors from dishonest officials and their swindling schemes.

Mr. Carnegie insisted emphatically that the welfare of the country required the re-election of President Roosevelt.

RICH AMERICAN FAMILIES TO BE UNITED BY MARRIAGE

Miss Gladys Mills Is to Wed Wealthy Pittsburger's Son

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Miss Gladys Mills, one of the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, will wed Henry Carnegie Phipps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phipps of this city and Pittsburg. The announcement of the engagement did not take society completely by surprise, as possibilities of the match had been talked of for some time.

The marriage of Miss Mills and Mr. Phipps will unite two of the largest American fortunes. Miss Gladys is who with her twin sister, Miss Beatrice, was introduced in society five years ago as the granddaughters of D. O. Mills, one of the wealthiest men in the United States. She is the niece of Mrs. Reid, wife of the United States ambassador to London, and of Mrs. George Cavendish, Countess of Eglar. Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mr. Phipps are the twin daughters of Mrs. Martin Livingston of this city.

When Mr. Carnegie Phipps is one of the four children of Henry Phipps, called the third richest Pittsburger.

Senator-Elect From Oklahoma
Favors Ballot For Women.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., October 26.—The advocates of woman suffrage will find a powerful ally in Robert L. Owens, senator-elect from Oklahoma. Owens has long held strong ideas relative to the rights of women to the ballot. Last fall when the constitutional convention was in session at Guthrie, he opened a campaign for the cause and assisted in every way he could to get a favorable clause in the constitution. In his speeches he announced that he stood for woman suffrage, even though such sentiment is not very popular in the new state. Colonel Owens also is a White Ribboner and never touches liquor in any form.

Maude Adams' Mother to Testify Against Mrs. A. Bradley

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Annie Adams, mother of Maude Adams, and once the fiancée of former United States Senator Arthur Brown of Utah, who was killed in the Raleigh Hotel, Washington, passed through this city today and had a conference with Assistant District Attorney Givens. She had previously been served with a subpoena to testify at the trial of Mrs. Anne M. Bradley, now under indictment for killing Brown. The woman who was to have been the wife of the brilliant, though erratic Western lawyer will be the witness by whom the prosecution expects to prove the motive for the murder.

Heiress Separates From Leslie Wright

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Charlotte H. Wright heir to one sixth of a $1,500,000 estate and wife of Leslie A. Wright, formerly a prominent club man of this city and now a resident of New York, was quietly granted a decree of divorce in Judge Sutter's court today.

The testimony on which the daughter of the late Jeremiah Clarke was given the decree was short and related only to the statement that the husband of the plaintiff had never supported her since their marriage in 1899.

The husband was represented neither in person nor by counsel and after the testimony of the wife had been taken and that of a corroborating witness, the interlocutory decree was granted.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 26.—Traveling from Pasadena, Cal., to Chicago to marry a man she has never seen, Miss Esther McInerney, a handsome widow, came through the Twin Cities today. The groom to be is William Kennedy, for thirty years an official of the Canadian government at Toronto, who is waiting in Chicago for the woman.

Friends with whom Mrs. McInerney was staying in Chicago two years ago were so intimate friends of Kennedy's and spoke of him in such glowing terms that Mrs. McInerney became deeply interested.

Then mutual friends got them to correspond. Photographs were exchanged and gradually a warm feeling began to permeate the epistles. Finally the meeting in Chicago was arranged.

and that the great prosperity will continue.

Their telegram received today follows:

COSTON IS SAFE

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Boston banking and financial conditions are a unit and there is no sign of disturbance of any sort. (Signed) DANIEL D. MOSE, Secretary Boston Chamber of Commerce.

PITTSBURGH OPTIMISTIC

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 26.—Our mills and factories are running full with orders ahead. Our workmen are being paid regularly the best wages in the world and they in turn are paying the grocer and the barber and all putting their money cheerfully. I can't see how any other man can be optimistic of the future can be taken. (Signed) H. D. WINGLISH, President Chamber of Commerce.

NEW ORLEANS SOLID

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—The banks and trust companies of this city are solid and sound and are in no manner affected by the conditions prevailing in New York. None of the failed banks or trust companies having correspondents here. All legitimate steps have been conservatively and adequately served. Retailers and jobbers report good business and fair collections and no sign of any trouble in any branch of business. It is feared. (Signed) ALBERT GODDARD, President Board of Trade.

CLEVELAND IS CONFIDENT

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26.—So far as our financial institutions are concerned there is not the slightest apprehension to be felt. In a business way this city has not been affected at all. In my opinion the present upheaval is one of those things which will pass and in Cleveland confidence is supreme and no alarm is felt. (Signed) LYMAN H. TREADWAY, President Chamber of Commerce.

CINCINNATI SATISFIED

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 26.—The financial condition of this city is as solid as Gibraltar. The present situation is going to pass over quickly. The crisis has passed. (Signed) W. A. BENNETT, President Chamber of Commerce.

PROSPEROUS IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 26.—Money is more plentiful in St. Louis now than it was at this time last year and financial conditions were never better. (Signed) CHARLES H. HUTCH, President Third National Bank.

ST. LOUIS SAFE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 26.—Everything is prosperous. We are lending money in amounts within reason. (Signed) F. D. WADE, President Mercantile Trust Company.

SOME OF THE FINANCIERS WHO FIGURED IN THE RECENT WALL STREET SCANDAL. ON THE LEFT IS WILLIAM B. RICHLEY, COMPTROLLER OF CURRENCY, WHO SUCCEEDS F. AUGUSTUS HEINZE AS THE PRESIDENT OF THE MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK, SO THAT ITS INTRICATE TANGLE OF AFFAIRS MAY BE STRAIGHTENED OUT IF POSSIBLE.

ON THE RIGHT IS A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE INSTITUTION. THE LOWER PHOTOGRAPH IS THAT OF CHARLES W. MORSE, WHOSE ALLEGED TREASONERY IN A COPPER POOL WAS BLAMED FOR HEINZE'S DOWNFALL. ON THE RIGHT IS DANIEL GUGGENHEIM, WHO ONLY LAUGHED WHEN THE STOCKS OF HIS FIRM DROPPED 50 POINTS IN THE STREET ONE DAY LAST WEEK.

NO SCARE IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—Our customers are getting all the money they need and we have nothing to be scared about. (Signed) O. V. DODGE, President Commercial Club.

KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—The West has the goods to deliver and that's the same as cash. (Signed) T. T. BROADWAY, President Board of Trade.

GALVESTON NOT WORRYING

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 26.—The country is as solid as gold. The trouble has come about by reason of inflated values and watered stock and not by any real trouble. The present situation in New York need not worry the country generally. For it is purely a local matter. Inflation is the real trouble and as soon as it is adjusted, the trouble is over. (Signed) H. J. JAFFMAN, President Finance Men's League.

DES MOINES UNFETTERED

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 26.—The money in the banks has been freed from the West and is not affected by the trouble in the street. (Signed) STATE AUDITOR CARROLL.

MINNEAPOLIS IS SAFE

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—Probably no part of the United States stands so secure as this. The situation in the West does not affect us. This is certainly a temporary thing and will pass. (Signed) JOHN H. MACMULLEN, President Chamber of Commerce.

MILWAUKEE IS SOUND

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 26.—Conditions in the entire Northwest were never better. Western people appear to be free of debt and every Western bank shows a decided increase in deposits put into Western industries and enterprises. In a word Western money is remaining at home in a glance at the deposits of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Kansas the truth of what I say is demonstrated. (Signed) JOHN H. MACMULLEN, President Chamber of Commerce.

BUTTE IS PROSPEROUS

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 26.—While suffering from a temporary depression from the partial shut down of the producing copper mines Butte is not taking a gloomy view of the outlook. With a stable metal market Butte business will adjust itself to conditions and business will improve. (Signed) BUTTE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

CARNEGIE TALKS OF BIG FLURRY

force, Mr. Carnegie predicted a new period of business expansion as a result of the Federal plans to prevent investors being swindled, attracting new volumes of foreign capital.

Mr. Carnegie, as he came up the bay in the White Star Liner Baltic said "Nothing unusual or unexpected has occurred. On the contrary, a fall in prices was due two years ago or more and it has been surprisingly small this past week. I am delighted to hear the good news this morning."

"To attribute recent and present famine prices to the wise and, in the true sense, the truly conservative resolve of the President and the Cabinet to enforce the salutary laws against abuse by the certain trusts is only a device to serve political intrigues."

REFORM STANDARDS

"The President has been urging this vital reform for years, during which prices have ruled highest. He stands today just where he did then, and where it is to be hoped he will stand until our laws protect honest investors from dishonest officials and their swindling schemes."

"This panic will soon run its course as others have and pass away leaving no impediment to the return in due season of another period of wholesome expansion of our resources."

The financial authorities have acted boldly but wisely. And the flurry will soon blow over. Nothing can prevent the progress of the Republic. The country is all right and bound to distance all competitors in the race.

"We have never had so great an advance in prices since the war or a rise so long continued. That this undue expansion must have an end all students of political economy know. The wisest expected it before it came last year. Only the repeated extraordinary crops postponed it."

WILD SPECULATIONS

"All this flurry of the day the excited actors will shortly be talking of as a reminiscence of the past wondering why they did not see how fleeting it was to be, and resolving that they will not be carried away again so easily with the rush of wild speculation when prices go sky-high, nor so unduly cast down when prices fall. But you know where the path is paved with good resolutions, even if those in trouble today did act more conservatively next time there would be a crowd of new and less experienced speculators to repeat the old folly."

"It seems probable that we are to go through a period of contraction. Extraordinary crops may postpone it again, but come this contraction will, sooner or later, as certain as the tides rise and fall. The contraction will be and must be in strict proportion to the expansion. This is a law which cannot be evaded. It lies in the nature of things."

worth about a million and a half. She was married to the late Leslie Wright of the Berkeley family of Wroth, of which Howard Wright, disgraced Speaker of the Assembly in 1901 at the time of the scandal in the building and loan association is a member.

SWEET PEA GIRL

One of Mrs. Wright's sisters is married to Captain Charles G. Lyman, formerly of the United States army, but now general manager of the Metropolitan Light and Power Company. It was her brother E. K. Clarke, whose marriage to the famous Sweet Pea Girl of the Durrant case was annulled on the ground of undue influence.

Mrs. Wright is living quietly on Jackson street. She has one child by a former marriage, a boy about 12 years old. Her mother Mrs. Clarke is at present ill in Santa Barbara. Mrs. Wright has been married for the last five years and she said yesterday that she had always been compelled to support herself.

wealth of their parent. They were told of a stylishly dressed young woman who called to ask concerning Deans. She refused to tell her name or address.

When Deans was first heard of last March he was spending money freely and his palates of longshoremen, sailors and laborers with champagne banquets. He engaged in such a banquet and in many more when he gave Thomas Ward a boiler-maker the certified check for $700 and told him to cash it at the National Bank of Commerce. Ward tried to do so, but was arrested and released the next day. Deans refusing to prosecute him after this Deans disappeared and was not heard of afterward until he landed

NO CLASS RULE IS RYAN SLOGAN

Taylor and McCarthy Lose, While This Young Stalwart's Gain Is Marked.

Daniel A. Ryan's active campaign during the past week has entrenched him strongly in a commanding position in the majority race. As one observer expressed today: "Dan is going along at just about the right speed to enable him to make a winning stretch run."

The most significant feature of the campaign has been the great stride to the young candidate during the last few days by men whose previous preference had been for Dr. Taylor or P. H. McCarthy. Hundreds of these men have come to the attention of the Examiner and some of the more prominent instances are included in the interviews given below.

In the case of Joseph J. Sharp, insurance broker, is not only for Ryan but he has a grievance because his name was used in the published list of the presidents of the Tailor's meeting at Deans' land rink last night.

SHARP NOT TAYLOR MAN

I believe Dan Ryan is going to be elected and I have been supporting him consistently throughout this campaign. I cannot imagine why my name was used in connection with the Taylor meeting. I have known Ryan since he was a boy and I count myself among the big majority of voters who are going to elect him.

Ryan is gaining every day and is most influential supporter of the campaign from the labor camp. He will be elected because of this fact. Men who were shouting for Taylor in the early part of the campaign have now switched to Ryan for the simple reason that they have looked at the record of the two men and they know that the latter will make the best Mayor for San Francisco.

The new Ryan enthusiasm is a product of the last few days. You see his actions everywhere and he is now in the front place of the race. So far as I can see all the votes that Taylor is losing are going to Ryan. McCarthy is getting none of them and Ryan's popularity is increasing daily.

The popular impression seems to be that Ryan will make the best Mayor because he has been through the fire and is supporting him. It is a campaign of many angles, but the events of the past few days make the outcome appear almost certain.

REPRESENTS WHOLE CITY

D. R. McNeill, a well known capitalist of this city who for some weeks has been carefully weighing the merits of the three candidates who are seeking to occupy the Mayor's office, yesterday declared himself for Daniel A. Ryan and proceeded to affiliate with the Ryan organizations. His reasons he gave as follows:

I am tired of seeing my native city governed by men who represent anything and everything but the people of the city. I have had enough of the old business interests and the old money to club working people during the great teamsters' strike. After Philip Schmitt elected in the Union Labor party, I am tired of the old money and the old business interests.

What we want now is a man to represent the whole people and give us an honest, efficient administration under which every citizen may secure justice and under which the city may grow strong and well again commercially and socially.

"It seems probable that we are to go through a period of contraction. Extraordinary crops may postpone it again, but come this contraction will, sooner or later, as certain as the tides rise and fall. The contraction will be and must be in strict proportion to the expansion. This is a law which cannot be evaded. It lies in the nature of things."

LANGDON'S CANDIDACY CAUSES GREAT WORRY

Graft Prosecution Exerting Every Effort to Secure Re-Election

(SPECIAL TO TRIBUNE)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—The graft prosecution has decided that every political influence at its command must be exerted to the best advantage to elect Attorney Langdon from defeat. Conditions which none of the managers of Langdon can afford to ignore have made it very plain that the official agent of the graft prosecution will be retained to fight the election.

The peculiarities of the campaign in San Francisco have forced the managers to resort to a series of unfortunate makeshifts that have involved no difficulties and have solved no problems. In the first place Langdon represents in himself nothing. His entire official career means nothing except that he has turned the official machinery of his office over to the high priced employees of a private prosecution.

Langdon has not only not prosecuted a solitary malfeasance. He has not undertaken a single trial of a briber. The aspect of the situation has impressed itself very deeply on the public mind. It is recalled in this campaign that Langdon's police have been ridiculous easy on his confidence. He has changed them as often and as frequently as the wind.

California Fruit Case Plea Is Ended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Arguments were concluded today before the Interstate Commerce Commission by Attorneys Brett and James in the California fruit cases. The attorneys impressed on all of the matters in dispute settled as early as a day as possible and asked that the commission give its decision and orders by January 1, this with reference to the moving of the next crop.

politically after being visited by all the plagues of the earth and the elements and all the ill-plundering band of buccant politicians could inflict.

Ryan is up to the neck in the man most able of all three candidates to accomplish that task. He is a native of the city and understands what is needed. He is tough enough to be energetic and vigorous in the prosecution of his duties. He is tough enough to have no mercy on a man who is a scoundrel.

Women Who Loved Slain Man to Meet for the First Time at Trial

Washington during the week of November 11. Each it is said had known of the existence of the other some time before the tragedy. Both had suffered somewhat. Mrs. Adams because she had learned of the disappearance of the man to whom she had become engaged and Mrs. Bradley because she had learned of the engagement that meant she must bear forever the stigma which had attached to her through the life of the Senator's first wife.

TO CLEAR HER NAME

Mrs. Adams it was supposed by the authorities would be adverse to testimony. It was thought she was in line to escape the service of the subject. This it is said was not the case. She is anxious to clear her name and to clear the name of the man to whom she was engaged and to clear her name from many of the accusations that have been made against her since his death.

Mrs. Adams has a pity for Mrs. Bradley and she believes her duty is to go to the aid of a subpoena. She will tell what she knows.

Mrs. Adams has had several conversations with the District Attorney General of Washington who came to this city to meet her and find out from her many things necessary to the prosecution. In these talks Mrs. Adams gave him all the information desired.

When Mrs. Adams returned to New York several weeks ago she was met by Mrs. Bradley and they met for the first time. At that time she saved the papers which she had with her and which she could testify. Since then she has been frequently in communication with the Washington authorities.

PERFECTLY PROPER TO SEND FLEET TO PACIFIC

Secretary Root Makes Reply to Protest After Meeting the Japanese Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—"No such relations exist between America and Japan as would make it improper to send the American fleet to the Pacific. If there were then the relations between America and Great Britain and the relations between America and France which are the same would forbid the maintenance of the fleet ship fleet in the Atlantic ocean."

This was the reply returned by Secretary Root to the direct question as to whether Japan had returned any protest against the despatch of Admiral Evans' fleet to the Pacific in December. The statement was made at the conclusion of a long conference between Secretary Root and Ambassador Aoki at the State Department today.

Secretary Root was particularly desirous to have it understood that the relations between the two countries—America and Japan—were not only at present harmonious but that they had not been otherwise and that there had not been the slightest friction between the Governments of the two countries.

EXERCISE LAWS

It was stated at the conclusion of this conference that the government of Japan was co-operating with the best of its ability with our own government to obtain proper enforcement of immigration laws of America so far as they relate to the treatment of Japanese without passports.

SUNDAY MORNING

SMALL FORTUNE
FOR BINDINGSDaughter of John D. Rockefeller Pays $100,000 for 30 Volumes of Ruskin.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The announcement was made today that Cobden Sanderson, the eminent English authority on bookbinding, and personal friend of William Morris, was now engaged in binding a set of John Ruskin's works for Mrs. Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, which, when completed, will be the finest and most valuable first edition of Ruskin in existence.

While neither Mrs. McCormick nor Sanderson would make any statement as to the value of the work, it is estimated by the best authorities on binding and first editions that when completed the Ruskin set, consisting of some thirty volumes, will represent $100,000 in total monetary value.

Harold F. McCormick, when seen at his residence, Bellevue place and Lake Shore drive, said that he did not know what the cost of the binding would be, that Mrs. McCormick wanted a combination of Ruskin and Sanderson and that the order was given five years ago and that five years more would be required to complete the work.

RIVALS MORGAN.
In his lecture on "King's Treasure," John Ruskin advises his readers that a large library is not a necessary adjunct of the student of literature, but that it is of greatest importance "to have a few good books, and these in strong, substantial bindings of finished workmanship."

Could the old master, who threw England into a storm of criticism by his championship of Turner and by his economic theories, see the splendid binding that embraces the first volume of his writings, as it lies in the glass case of the rooms of the Caxton Club in the Fine Arts building, he would feel that his advice had been carried into execution by one of his readers at least, for a more beautiful piece of workmanship would be difficult to imagine.

HARMONY A FACTOR.
It is also a significant fact that the man who made the first of the first principles in the art of binding a book, William Morris, who with Ruskin did much to revolutionize the spirit of art in Europe, said that a book and its binding should always be in harmony.

As the champion of Ruskin, when England seemed bent on denying his laurels, Morris also would rejoice to see how an American woman had faithfully carried out his dictum.

Still more strangely significant is the fact that Mrs. McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in America, has been reared in an atmosphere wholly inconsistent with the teachings of Ruskin.

It was Ruskin who denounced the rich of England, warning their treasures "argued in indifference to the woe and want of those who sought with weary eyes release from the prison of ignorance and poverty."

SACRAMENTO
WINS FIRSTStockton Defeated in Initial Contest of Deciding State League Series.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 26.—Before one of the biggest Saturday crowds ever seen in the capital city, the locals defeated Stockton today in the first game of what is practically the deciding series of the State League race. Sacramento was always in the lead, scoring once in the third inning and piling up three more in the fourth. The Stockton contingent were easy at the hands of "Spider" Baum except in the sixth, when they scored three times. The locals added another in the seventh, clinching the game.

Henderson and Baum were both given excellent support, but the "Spider" proved the stronger with men on bases. Iverson's three-bagger with the bases full was the feature of the game. Score by innings:

PACIFIC MAIL TO ADD
TWO LARGE STEAMERS

Having failed to secure additional steamers for the San Francisco and Portland line through the agency of others, Vice President and General Manager R. P. Schwerin of the Pacific Mail Company has gone East to make a personal search for suitable vessels. Not many weeks ago the company was nearly completed for the purchase of the Kansas City and the City of Birmingham, on the Eastern coast, but both steamers proved unsatisfactory before the money passed and the deals were called off. Captain Eiden was even sent East to bring one of the steamers to this coast, but he was recalled. Now Schwerin, accompanied by his secretary, Mr. Fry, has gone to find a steamer, and probably two, for the Portland route. The line is now covered by the Coast Rica and the City of Panama, neither of which is suited to the heavy passenger and freight traffic of the route, and in the meantime the company is losing trade to opposition vessels. Since the Columbia left for the Portland route, the Portland route has been necessarily neglected, particularly as regards the passenger business. But Manager Schwerin is determined to find and purchase a suitable and modern liner, falling in which he may confer with Farrington as to having at least one steamer especially built for the line.

GORKY ONCE MORE IN CONFLICT WITH LAW

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)
ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26.—Maxim Gorky has received a communication from the procurator of the High Court informing him that he will be criminally prosecuted for his novel, "The Mother." The accusation is under the 129th statute, which threatens severe punishment for agitating to upset the existing regime.

This is the ninth time that Gorky has had trouble with the Russian law.

JEWELS STOLEN;
RANSOM ASKEDSecret Theft of Jewels in 1903
Revealed by Thieves' Demand.

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)
LONDON, Oct. 26.—Although not a word has leaked out to the press, a few details concerning a remarkable jewel robbery which occurred in the year 1903 are beginning to circulate in the clubs as the result of some very recent and startling developments.

In 1903 the Earl of Verulam, a direct descendant of the great Lord Bacon of Elizabethan days, was robbed of a collection of jewels, which included historical pieces of priceless value. Lord Verulam is one of those peers who take no great interest in social display, nor does he care to be much in the public eye, but he has always prided himself on his connection with the great Bacon and is keenly interested in the Elizabethan period. Since his loss he has been in constant communication with London detectives, who in their turn have been in touch with the American force.

HEIRLOOM RETURNED.
Within the last few weeks, however, there have been developments of an amazing character. Lord Verulam has received one of his most precious heirlooms from Aldenot. The anonymous letter which accompanied the heirloom stated that the whole of the jewels and other articles would be eventually restored if a big ransom were paid. The letter was evidently written by a gentleman of culture.

Among the many articles missing are a crystal medallion of great antiquity containing the head of a young man in gold, several gold medals of the reigns of Henry VIII and Henry VIII, many Elizabethan relics, caskets and snuffboxes and silver articles with the coat of arms of the Grimstones, the family name of the Verulams. Lord Verulam at present refuses to pay the ransom demanded.

FAIR NETS A LARGE SUMWomen of St. Sebastian Parish
Work Hard to Raise Fund for Debt.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Oct. 26.—The grand fancy fair that has been in progress this week in the city of Sebastopol, for the benefit of the Church of St. Sebastian has proved very successful and a large sum has been realized for paying off the church debt. It is believed the money needed will be fully received. The Rev. Father M. A. Mackay is the pastor of the parish and is an indefatigable worker, greatly beloved by his parishioners. Since he assumed charge the pastorate has grown to a large extent and he has also built a neat little mission church in the town of Guerneville. The fair was arranged by the women of the parish, who worked hard to achieve success.

WOULD SAVE ALL RATS
FROM DESTRUCTION

To the Editor of THE TRIBUNE:
Quite likely I am one of a small minority opposed to the annihilation of rats, but from daily observation I must decide that the rat is a blessing to humanity where refuse food or filth is permitted to accumulate. I believe, were the truth known, the present plague is the result of local unsanitary conditions. While the rats, which naturally scavengers are killed off and extreme sanitary regulations are not inaugurated soon thereafter, great will be the extent and spread of disease.

Fifth is the root of disease, and this animated port works in the close quarters, especially those at the back of many local saloons, in the rear of various eating houses, fruit and vegetable stores, butcher shops, fish markets, private residences and other places; also in the pipes leading from kitchen sinks. Instead of making a sanitary war—a hot one—on filthy humans. Eternal vigilance as to sanitation is the price of health in densely populated cities. Respectfully,

R. H. WHITSON,
1375 Eighth St., Oakland.

CITY OFFICIALS CHANGE
LOCATION OF OFFICES

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Seven of the Superior courts will be ready for the opening of business in the Grant building, Monday morning. They are the departments presided over by Judges Conover, Graham, Healy, McKinnon, Stratton, Morgan and Seawell. Judges Hunt, Trout, Lawlor, Cook and Dunn will remain in their present quarters in the County Building, which is the office of the County Clerk Mulvey. The County Clerk Mulvey has established himself in his new quarters he will conduct a large part of the business of the court, but any paper in a pleading heretofore filed can be left there.

NEW THEATRICAL PAPER FOR FRENCH PLAYGOERS

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The unusual interest taken in the theater in France is shown by publication of a new daily paper devoted entirely to the stage, new plays, the doings of theatrical persons and everything nearly or remotely associated with theatrical affairs.

The subject matter is to be not merely gossip, but interesting literary matter, and a list of contributors includes several academicians and other foremost literary figures of the day.

HURLED IN AIR
BY STREET CARWitnesses Rush to Prostrate
Form but Find Victim Not Seriously Hurt.

While attempting to cross in front of a rapidly moving street car at the corner of Nineteenth and San Pablo avenue at 6:30 o'clock last evening, C. J. Cafferty, a hostler, narrowly escaped being killed. The heavy car struck the man a terrific blow and hurled him several feet through the air.

Horror-stricken onlookers rushed to Cafferty's aid, expecting to find that the life had been crushed from his body. To their great surprise and relief, however, it was found that he was not dangerously injured, although there were a number of serious cuts about his head and face. As quickly as possible the man was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Koford dressed the wounds.

Cafferty was crossing San Pablo avenue when the accident occurred. Apparently he did not notice the approaching car, although the motorman rang a vigorous warning. Cafferty started to cross the tracks when the car was but a few feet away from him. It was impossible for the motorman to stop his car in time to avert the accident.

After he had been treated at the hospital Cafferty was able to go to his home at the corner of Williams and San Pablo avenue.

WU TING FANG
HAILS RETURNChinese Minister to U. S. Glad of Opportunity to Emphasize Friendship.

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)
SHANGHAI, Oct. 26.—In an interview today Wu Ting Fang, who was passing through Shanghai on his way to Peking, where he will remain for a month before journeying to Washington to take up his duties as minister, said:

"I am greatly pleased over my return. I had retired expecting to devote my remaining years to literary labors, but accepted the post because the appointment was an evidence of confidence by the throne and might contribute toward a continuance of the friendship between the two nations. This was the prime consideration, and I would not have accepted any other appointment."

"What about the boycott?"
"I was in the Wai Wu House, Peking, at that time and had nothing more to do with the boycott than my duty."

"Wu's attention was called to the criticisms that perhaps when he was in the United States he manifested too great a tendency to discuss purely international politics. He laughed heartily and said:

"I have many good friends in the United States who will in all sincerity aid me in my efforts. The interests of my country are always my first consideration, but I am not overlooking the world of the Indians. What a tragedy, that forty years of a man's life should be spent in a work that today apparently bears no fruit. The Indians did not stay contented after they died, and only this old mission remains to bear witness to the past."

"As we left the Mission our way back lay across the sands to the surging sea."

"It is a shame," burst out Mr. Sterling, "for you to see Carmel on a dark day. You can have no idea of the coloring. It is so vivid, the sky is so white, it is dazzling. To see it today is like—why, it is like looking at a ruby in the dark."

"But I came to see you, not Carmel," I said, "to talk about your poetry, which we haven't done. Did you begin early? What is the first poem you ever wrote?"

"Oh! I showed great marks of genius," he said with a gay laugh. "Do you really want my first attempt? Well, remain with it. It was written in school. This is it:

Close, close in hilly slumbers rapt,

"I am sorry to disappoint you, but it was not until I grew up that I began to write verse."

"And are you devoting your whole time to poetry?"

"Just now I am. I was in business, but I have given that up. I don't want to be a poet, but I want to be a poet you have to write poetry."

"Just now I am. I was in business, but I have given that up. I don't want to be a poet, but I want to be a poet you have to write poetry."

"And what is it you find in poetry?"
"Poetry to me is something that grips you, and that is something that grips you, and that is something that grips you."

"Do you succeed in getting both in your poems?"
"No, sometimes I have one, sometimes the other, but I try to have both. I shall ever write, called 'The Testimony of the Sun,' which is also the title of my volume of poems. It is a play written by one of the members of the club this year, as I said, it was Mr. Sterling's turn. Formerly the plays have had a foreign, usually a Greek, background for their setting, but as the play is always given out of doors among the splendid big trees of California, Mr. Sterling determined to make use of the enchanting background, and wrote what he called 'The Triumph of Bohemia,' a forest play. The characters were the spirit of the Woods, the spirit of the Winds, and the Spirit of Bohemia and the woodmen. The people who saw it described it as wonderful beyond words. The great thrilling words, with all the enchantments of night formed the stage, on which these various spirits contended and related to the accompaniments of beautiful music. The opening note is that of a tree spirit, who, rousing drowsily from sleep, exclaims:

"Who called? I faint would sleep, Nay, I call me not!"
I clung to sleep! What voices break my rest?
What power tonight makes heavy all the air
And with my slumber mixes dreadful dreams?"

These people of the West know how to live and feel, and there is a comradeship that they understand which is most delightful. The end of my stay at Carmel had come. It was time to make a departure. It was with keen regret that I turned my face Eastward and said good-bye.

PRIDE AND CONSCIENCE.
Considering the mystery of Pain,
I walked one day, when lo! in rags
Awech and grizzled, a hunchback shambled by.
Whereat, in what far certitude of gain
Dost thou detain Thine image, and disdain
Our hearts that love the beautiful?
Like kings of old keep monsters in Thy
Also I said: "The shadows of Thy whole
And dreadful Plan are witness of the
And strict concern of 'relativity.'"
So came, unerring as the sunbeam's
The indignant challenge of mine under-
"Nay? was I straight in God's sight—
"or lie?"

A very interesting piece of work that Mr. Sterling did this last summer was to write a play in verse for the Bohemian Club, that club, an association of all the best men of the West. All the literary, musical and art good-bye.

GEO. STERLING
IS INTERVIEWEDNephew of Frank C. Havens Talks About His Poems.

A writer in the New York Times of October 18th has the following to say about George Sterling, nephew of Frank C. Havens of this city: "My next call was on Mr. James Hopper. He lived but on a few blocks of sand, from Mrs. Austin, further back from the sea. Unfortunately, he was just going out, so I did not have time for an interview. Only the opportunity to see that he was young and strong and full of the vitality of youth. His football training had put him in splendid physical trim for a literary career. I believe he made his everlasting frame by football in the West and they made him take extra courses and kept him at college as long as possible. When he left college he went to the Philippines, where he taught for some time. There he gathered so easily interesting material that he began to write stories. His stories were published in most of the leading magazines, and this last spring he brought out a collection of stories in book form under the title of 'Cubis' and has given up all other work for his activities in fiction."

"As I was about to leave his piazza, a young man came up the steps. This is fortunate," said Mr. Sterling. "He is George Sterling, Glen Elder, why and strong, with close-cut hair, this man might have been—I was going to say anything but a poet—but no, that is not true; there was grace of person, a sure and steady gaze, the blue eyes, and a fine simplicity that made one sure that genius dwelt in the man's soul. We walked off together quite as though we had known each other for years. There was something about him that put one instantly at ease. Along through a little trail in the woods we went, for Mr. Sterling's cottage is back from the sea among the hills. As we neared the house we came to clearing in the center of which were the remains of a great camp fire, and on the trees which circled the fire were carved skulls and crossed bones and other things that they and their frequent visitors gather in the evening for talk and discussion. Across the clearing was the house. Quiet and charming with windows that looked out on the sea, the great living room lined with books, and at one end the big stone fireplace. From the front door between the trees one looked out on the brown meadows and hills, and the white of the sea, and the soft sea air blew in through the open doorway clean and fresh."

"Just in front of us on the other side of the clearing the old Carmel mission stood. Would you like to see it?" inquired Mr. Sterling.

"I expressed my delight at the idea and we started off. Through trail and over meadows, under the vines and over wooden fences we went until we stood in the doorway of the old Mission. Mr. Sterling went to a neighboring house for the key, a vast iron key twice as long as the other, and he unlocked the door and rang the old bell and then went into the body of the church, which stood just as it was when it was built. At one side of the altar is the tomb of the founder, Mr. Sterling told me a little of its history and he said: "In 1770 this old Mission was built; it is the second oldest mission in California. The founder, Junipero Serra, lived here for many years, and he died here, learned to love and respect him. On Sunday, when the church was filled with the Spanish nobility, thousands of Indians knelt praying in the surrounding fields. The church was the work of the Indians. What a tragedy, that forty years of a man's life should be spent in a work that today apparently bears no fruit. The Indians did not stay contented after they died, and only this old Mission remains to bear witness to the past."

"As we left the Mission our way back lay across the sands to the surging sea."

"Poetry to me is something that grips you, and that is something that grips you, and that is something that grips you."

"Do you succeed in getting both in your poems?"
"No, sometimes I have one, sometimes the other, but I try to have both. I shall ever write, called 'The Testimony of the Sun,' which is also the title of my volume of poems. It is a play written by one of the members of the club this year, as I said, it was Mr. Sterling's turn. Formerly the plays have had a foreign, usually a Greek, background for their setting, but as the play is always given out of doors among the splendid big trees of California, Mr. Sterling determined to make use of the enchanting background, and wrote what he called 'The Triumph of Bohemia,' a forest play. The characters were the spirit of the Woods, the spirit of the Winds, and the Spirit of Bohemia and the woodmen. The people who saw it described it as wonderful beyond words. The great thrilling words, with all the enchantments of night formed the stage, on which these various spirits contended and related to the accompaniments of beautiful music. The opening note is that of a tree spirit, who, rousing drowsily from sleep, exclaims:

"Who called? I faint would sleep, Nay, I call me not!"
I clung to sleep! What voices break my rest?
What power tonight makes heavy all the air
And with my slumber mixes dreadful dreams?"

CONFLAGRATION
IS PREVENTEDChinese Laundry Burns to the Ground and Threatens Richmond Buildings.

RICHMOND, Oct. 26.—A Chinese wash house belonging to Quong Linn Chung, located on Market street, near Washington avenue, caught fire in the interior at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and for a time threatened the St. Francis Hotel and other valuable property adjacent. Good work by the fire company, however, saved the hotel of the building in which the fire started, and stopped what purported to be a conflagration.

The Oyster Loft Cafe at the foot of Washington avenue, is again to be opened to the public. This time it will be under the management of Messrs. W. E. Stratton and B. Hollman, a duo of Berkeley caterers.

Joseph H. Lodge, No. 263, will give a whisky tournament in Monte Richmond at next Tuesday evening.

The steamer Atlas, Capt. Badger, with Barge 21, Capt. Stannard, in tow, sailed from the Standard Oil Company's wharf for Portland yesterday morning with a cargo of black oil on board.

The steamer Locomotive also left the Standard's long wharf yesterday morning with a cargo of gasoline bound for Richmond.

The Ascension, Capt. Bridget, of the Standard Oil's coast fleet, left this morning for San Francisco, and the Macdonald avenue photographs has disposed of his business interests here, and will move his family to San Diego, where he hopes to benefit in health by the climatic change.

Miss Eunice Cotton, who has been visiting in Los Angeles the past six weeks, returned home last evening. She reports a most delightful trip.

A. D. Koster, of the firm of Koster Brothers, liquor dealers, at 1155 Seventh street, denies that he is the man who furnished bail for Charles Levy, alias Williams, who failed to appear in the Police Court yesterday morning when his hearing on a serious charge was ordered. Judge Mortimer had ordered the $1000 bail which had been deposited with the police forfeited, and issued a bench warrant for the rearrest of the missing man.

"Neither my brother nor myself is acquainted with this man Levy," said Koster last night, "and neither of us furnished the bail for him. I am at a loss to know how the report started."

The statement as to the name of the bondsman was made at police headquarters. It is denied by each of the Koster brothers. The practice of police headquarters is never to take the names of bondsmen giving cash bail.

(Special to The Tribune.)
REDDING, Oct. 26.—Trouble that began in John, a girl, ended in a focus in this city last night when Romy Ford shot Charles Alvin Hoover through the left leg.

The shooting occurred on the railroad near the Catholic cemetery. Ford fired twice at Hoover, the second shot taking effect. Hoover returned the fire and Ford fled up the track and has not been captured.

Hoover, a butcher, has lived here for three months. Ford arrived here Wednesday evening from Joplin and was looking for Hoover. The butcher fired, who left a short trail of blood behind him.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26.—Owing to the embarrassment of the American Westinghouse company and the cessation of financial support from them, the municipal government of St. Petersburg has assured the Russian Westinghouse Company that payments on its electric street railway contract will be hastened so as to prevent a stoppage of the work.

GOOD TIMES FOR OAKLAND-MERCANTANTS

Advertising Specialist Gives Interesting Reason Why Holiday Shopping Will Be Good.

STUART W. BOOTH.

A bank failed in New York a few days ago, and would you believe it, there were actually some merchants in Oakland, whose faces fell, too.

If there be any reason or any ghost of a reason why anybody doing business in Oakland should be other than a red-hot optimist, I do not know it.

Without any exaggeration, I believe it would be impossible to find any locality in the country with such legitimate, conservative insurance of "good times" as is to be found in Oakland today.

This is not a speculative center; it is a staple commercial and industrial city surrounded by all those elements that form the backbone of a city's commerce and although closely in touch with the avenues of trade I see nothing to cast the slightest cloud on the horizon of prosperity.

Nor are these introductory sentences in the nature of "hot air." There are hard facts to support them.

It is not so long ago when everything in the way of retail trade from San Jose, Tesli, Livermore, Irvington, Hayward, San Leandro, and Alameda was carried out along the southern boundary of Oakland and shot across to San Francisco. At that time all the retail trade from Valparaiso, Port Costa, Martinez, Crockett, Sique, Point Richmond, Berkeley, and West Berkeley flew along the western boundary and also shot over to San Francisco. This was the condition of affairs up to eighteen months ago.

Now how different! The people from all these towns find no attractions across the bay, such as they can find in Oakland. Here are the leading retail stores here are the finest, as well as the most numerous theaters in California; here are now the hotel accommodations, the restaurant and cafe conveniences, and a street car service for which no one has to apologize.

And as for Oakland itself, it is now for Oakland. This locality, no matter from what inspiration it springs, is a pronounced factor in Oakland's trade today. No longer do superior attractions, either of business or pleasure, offer the least excuse to trade outside of Oakland. Whereas a year and a half ago, one-half of Oakland's one hundred thousand people and two-thirds of the seventy-five thousand people, by which she was surrounded, went to San Francisco to spend their money.

Today the two hundred and fifty thousand people of Oakland and a similar number in the towns within easy distance of her, are doing their business with her merchants.

It needs no prophet to foresee what this means; a blind man can see the evidence of it today. When the holiday season breaks, many of Oakland's merchants, optimistic as they may be, will be given a great surprise. Even now the streets of the business center of Oakland are over-crowded during the rush hours of business and especially on Saturday nights. What can we expect when the holiday season breaks?

Even now the street cars are crowded during the busy hours with the largest and best-natured crowds that street cars were ever intended to carry. Right here, in passing, I want to say that although I have been in many of the largest cities in the world, I have never seen such magnificence of good-fellowship as prevail among the crowds that are to be seen and heard on Oakland's street cars. It is not out of place to mention the fact that although the street car corporation has been taxed to its limit its tens of thousands of passengers all appear to believe that it is doing its very best and increasing its facilities as fast as possible. And they all know that every new street car that appears on the tracks has been made right in this city and represents just so much more money in circulation.

Now there is only one way to let all these people know just what good things there are for them in the stores, in the theaters, in the restaurants, and on the streets of Oakland.

Advertising—and although some wise fellow has said that the time to advertise is all the time, it is still permissible to say that the particular time is a particularly good time for commerce and pleasure to too; its horns, play its graphophones, and do everything that will educate half a million people to a full knowledge of what Oakland is today. I cannot be pleaded that there is any lack of media in Alameda county, for any and all kinds of advertising—good, bad, indifferent and worse. The man who is after trade, no matter of what kind, has every opportunity to do all the exploiting he wishes, nor need it cost him as much money as a similar effort would cost him in most other commercial centers.

It is not to be supposed that the busy merchant has time or the necessary means of detail to outline a progressive and ample advertising campaign. But there is no lack of brains in Oakland that can be employed in this direction, and the merchant who makes good use of the services of a good advertising man is making a mighty good investment. This is pre-eminent the time when the advertising man should set busy. No undue modesty and no invidious economy should operate to prevent a free reign for the next two months at least.

The most productive time to shoot birds is when there are most birds in the air and when one barrel is likely to bring down two or three juicy sprigs at a time. Certainly the buying birds are coming to Oakland now in great flocks and the man who uses the most shot with the steadiest aim will find his bag this season.

This last remark recalls to my mind a few individual incidents that have actually occurred in the local advertising field that I will relate, although greatly regretting that for obvious reasons I may not give names and addresses.

The proprietor of a Washington street store which deals in crockery and other things, and has a total frontage of about one hundred and ten feet, electrified me on the eve of a previous holiday season by stating that he wanted to make a holiday advertising campaign with $30. He followed up this wonderful statement by declaring that advertising was this and that and the other thing, "and was no good anyhow." This merchant dealt in a special brand of articles that he sold for 20 cents a pound. I suggested to him that he let me put one line of agent type in each Oakland newspaper, saying that on the following Saturday he would sell this thirty-cent brand for ten cents a pound. He agreed to do it, but before I got three feet away he cried after me: "We'll call that off, a lot of blamed idiots would see that anyhow."

Another leading merchant, who deals in both men's and women's clothing, advertised some high-grade ladies' suits some days afterwards a man and woman who looked as if they had come directly from a hay barn in the country appeared at this store and asked to be shown some umbrellas. The clerk showed a pair of $1 and the farmer asked for something better. He was shown something at $2 and still he wanted something better. Finally he took the clerk off his feet by purchasing an umbrella for ten cents, which he turned to his wife and said, "Say, Biddy, ain't this the place where they advertise them fine suits for sale?" Biddy went out on the sidewalk to look at the name and discovered that it was the place they wanted. Finally she turned back for the purchase of the umbrella and it is safe to say that there was profit enough in that one suit and umbrella to pay twenty times over for the cheap little ad in the country paper that had caught the old people's eyes.

As proof that Oakland has risen to a metropolitan level in merchandising, just one little incident occurs to me. Quite recently one of Oakland's leading goods houses had a couple of feature in its big Sunday advertisement, an item relating to a magnificent imported high-priced gown. Before the advertisement appeared, a customer from San Francisco bought the gown and the ad man had to spend the midnight hour on Saturday changing the advertisement.

Only a few days ago another large firm freely advertised a big sale of a bargain stock and made my special business to note the effect of this sale and obtained conclusive proof that every merchant on that street within three blocks of where the sale was held, had a great deal more than the average progress of business. The advertising brought a new crowd onto the street and everybody benefited.

About a year ago a firm of furniture dealers, who were absolutely new to Oakland, opened a big store on Broadway, the center of business in Old Town, and heads and prophesied an early failure, but the new firm knew its business. It used printers' ink by the square yard and soon built up a tremendous trade. A few weeks ago it installed a new building, a new block four stories high and of great depth and it occupies every inch of the entire building. Had it not been for its liberal advertising, this firm could not have been in existence for three months.

It would easily be possible to go on and on, telling of what advertising is doing this hour for the trade of Oakland and for the city as a whole. I merely mention a few of the many examples of the progress of five years ago, as a revelation. Had Oakland merchants been as progressive in the past as they are now, the trade of Oakland would never have been transacted in San Francisco to the extent that it was until an upheaval of nature put a stop to it.

One of the most amusing things to me was the action of Oakland's Board of Public Works a couple of years ago when it expressed its disapproval of electric light signs in use by merchants. Many of the most prominent signs were ordered away and they have never been replaced. In every other city, and in the big Oakland of today, it is gratifying to notice that every possible encouragement is given to merchants to display all the illumination possible. There is no reason why Broadway, Washington street, San Pablo avenue and Clay street should not be "great white ways"—yet it is only four years ago since an Oakland board of officials declared in favor of a dark town. I merely mention this incident as an encouragement to those who think, perhaps, Oakland might go ahead faster than it does.

Now after all these incidents and anecdotes and general facts we come to the burning question—how shall the trade, say within a radius of thirty miles, be brought to Oakland? There are steam trains enough, there are electric cars enough and there are autos sufficient to bring it here.

Yet all this machinery will not produce the desired result unless all effort be directed by the proper energy.

The only energy that can induce today is advertising.

With comparatively few exceptions, the Oakland merchants are not reaching out sufficiently. They seem to be content to rest on their laurels and to be in fear that some indefinable specter will suddenly rise up before them and bar their progress. Any such specter is simply the creation of a timid mind. For I think I have brought forward enough evidence to prove that no such possibility need be feared.

There is nothing new in the principle I have just referred to. I once strolled into a church and I heard the minister read from the Good Book. He was repeating the words of the Christ when He was sending out his apostles: "Go ye into all the world and preach the doctrine to every creature." For over nineteen centuries that doctrine has been advertised until it has become known in every corner of the world. Today the system of advertising is so perfect that if a firm were to desire that its advertisement should appear in every newspaper upon earth within a couple of days, it could be accomplished at an expense that would not seem so very tremendous.

But to get back to Oakland, the knowledge of what is here for people to buy can be easily disseminated as far as expediency warrants. All the machinery is in good working order and if all those who cater to the needs and pleasures of men, women and children will use the right means and the right methods, neither San Francisco, Los Angeles nor Seattle will be able to keep pace with the commercial growth of the city.

Gentlemen, it is up to you.

STUART W. BOOTH.

REPLY MADE TO JACOB SCHIFF

Enthusiastic Zionite Sends Letter Refuting Financier's Charges.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—When Mr. Jacob Schiff, the famous partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and one of the most sagacious financiers of the United States, stepped out of his task of money manipulations to describe the differing phases of Zionism and Judaism, he invited argument and defied criticism.

Mr. Schiff declared that Zionism, instead of promoting and endorsing Jewish ideas, is a reactionary force, tending to furnish new armaments to the anti-Semites.

"Zionism," he asserts, "retards the perfect Americanization of recent Jewish immigrants, whose success and happiness depend upon their absorption, apart from their faith, into the American people!"

MAKES REPLY.

Boris Kazman, an enthusiastic Zionite residing in this city, has undertaken to reply to Mr. Schiff's charges. In an open letter to the New York Sun, Mr. Kazman says:

"NEW YORK, October 12.—Sir: Some views on Zionism recently published by Mr. Schiff contain a number of reasons why one should not be a Zionist. I summarize his propositions and comment upon them:

"1. Zionism does not express the desire of the Jewish race, nor does it represent Jewish orthodoxy."

AWAKENS SPIRIT.

"Zionism aims to awaken the spirit of the Jewish race and to break down all repressive and disintegrating influences of exile, the Ghetto and the dispersion. Therefore it is not to be judged merely by the number of its adherents, but by the spirit and the ideals that it stands for. Zionism speaks for the future of the Jewish race, and it is an endeavor to arouse that race to the imperative need of throwing off all those influences that tend to mar that future. The slowness of the response on the part of the Jewish people is a manifestation of the difficulties which Zionism has to overcome in its own milieu; and it aims to unseat the habit of submission that has grown out of the degradation of the Ghetto, the spirit of the slave who so completely effaced his own individuality as to be proud to say 'I love my master' and willingly allowed his ears to be bored as a token of his everlasting bondage. Zionism seeks to lead the Jews to self-expression, and antagonism to it is a direct consequence of centuries of repression which has led them to lean on a vague Messianic hope, or a millennium or a universal mission, rather than upon a concerted effort for self-emancipation. Zionism is the dynamic force in Jewish life; the opposition to it is composed of the static elements of the Diaspora."

REFUTES POINT.

"To refute the point that Zionism does not represent orthodox Jewry I refer to the following essays, where the orthodox authorities to the contrary may be found. The attention of Mr. Schiff is called to these in lieu of others of more ancient date because they meet the issue he has raised in direct terms: 'Die Stimme der Wahrheit,' Dr. Askenazi, on two points, namely, 'Is Zionism Sanctioned from the Religious Standpoints?' and 'Is Zionism in Harmony With the Law of the State?' Dr. K. Lippe, 'Zionism From the Standpoint of Jewish Orthodoxy.' Dr. Richard Hildesheimer, 'Zion and Religion.' M. Steinhilber, 'Zionism From the Standpoint of Orthodoxy.' Dr. H. Seligson, 'Religion and Zionism.' 'Shivas Zion,' in Hebrew, by Abraham Jacob Slutsky; Warsaw, 1900. 'The Golden Mean,' in Hebrew, by Mordecai Elliasberg; Warsaw, 1887."

"2. Political Zionism has nothing in common with the Messianic hope."

MESSIANIC HOPE.

"If the Messianic hope is embodied in the idea of a ragged Saviour riding into Jerusalem on a white ass, Mr. Schiff is unquestionably correct. If, however, the Messianic hope is the hope for the redemption of the Jewish people and their final release from the bondage of the exile, and if we believe that this hope is ever to be realized and the Jews are to be the active instruments of its realization, we submit that there is no other movement in Jewish life, which has a better right to stand for the Messianic hope than the Zionist movement. The authorities quoted above may also be useful in elucidating this point."

"3. An attempt to force the hand of Providence would be disastrous, and Zionism has not the sanction of a divine command."

The success of any right cause has always been coupled in the minds of men with its divine origin. But the absence of a divine command cannot be known a priori. A just cause cannot be brushed aside by the assertion of any mortal that God has not spoken. It is enough for our purpose that the cause of righteousness and the highest well being of our people are to be served by the success of our endeavors to warrant our assertion that the God of Israel does speak through a movement that aims to free His people."

4. Mr. Schiff agrees with Zionism in so far as it means a return to Jewish ideals, but political Zionism goes beyond and outside of a return to Jewish ideals."

JEWISH IDEALS.

What are Jewish ideals? They are certain definite hopes that relate to the physical and spiritual well being of the Jewish race. A return to these ideals of living must mean effort on the part of the Jewish people to make them an ever present influence in their lives. I contend that these ideals are impossible of realization without the establishment of a Jewish nation upon its own territory. Without it these ideals are nothing but vague, useless hopes that had better be forgotten if nothing is to be done for their realization. Mr. Schiff seems to agree with Zionism in its ideal aspects, but balks at the idea of doing anything to actualize them. This seems to be a curious state of mind for such a practical man."

CREATES LIEN.

5. Zionism is not incompatible with patriotism, but in its political doctrines it must create a lien on citizenship and limit it."

A denial and an affirmation of the same thing. This inconsistency must be credited to Mr. Schiff's well-known philanthropic spirit and to his desire to modify his first opinion. But he takes away with his left hand and returns the same commodity with his right."

6. It is political Zionism that has furnished new armaments to the anti-Semites (the constant complaint of the Jews in Germany.)

BANK CASHIER FACES CHARGES

Pittsburg Grand Jury Returns Indictments Against Official of Defunct Institution.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 26.—Two indictments were returned by the grand jury against B. F. Rinehart, former cashier of the Farmers' and Drivers' National Bank at Waynesburg, Pa. One indictment contains 90 counts, 71 of which are upon alleged false entries in the books of the bank and in the reports to the comptroller of the currency. Fifteen counts charge abstractions amounting to $110,146.35 and four allege misapplications amounting to $50,467.12.

The other indictment contains nineteen counts, eight of which are for alleged false entries and eleven for alleged abstractions amounting to $74,609.96.

The failure of the Farmers' and Drivers' Bank involved almost $2,000,000. For eight months efforts have been made to reopen the institution, but without success.

This is an insult and an underestimation of the insouciance of the anti-Semites. There were anti-Semites in the time of Mordecai, when Zionism politically was unknown, and Sambat's pernicious activity did not deter Ezra from his work of restoration. The armaments of anti-Semitism are provided, we contend, by the anomalous position of the Jewish people, and not by Zionism. Jewish policy has too often been guided by a fright inspired by anti-Semitism. Zionism has come to alter that undignified and unworthy policy, and it asks that we look toward the interests of the Jewish people primarily without regard to anti-Semites. What Stoeker may say does not interfere with our equanimity."

ANOTHER ANSWER.

7. If Zion is to be a place of refuge only for the persecuted, it is an insult to them, for presumably Zion is not considered fit for the non-persecuted."

Zionism is a question that concerns the Jewish race as such, and hence there is no question of groups or individuals located here or there in persecuting or non-persecuted lands. The inner desire and the self-determination of the Jewish race will determine the character of those who will be inspired to return, and it will be no insult to those who remain in the status quo, wherever it may be, if they do not return.

8. Personal assurances of Mr. Schiff's interest in the welfare of his hard suffering coreligionists.

No one has ever questioned the fine spirit of philanthropy and the willingness to be generous of Mr. Schiff, but it is to be regretted that he has not learned that it is Zionism which is working in the direction of obviating the necessity of that philanthropy, which in the United States seems to have absorbed almost all that there is left of Jewish life. Jewish philanthropy is sick with the common ailment of all philanthropy. Zionism is a radical cure of Jewish ailments; it is the policy of self-help pitted against the enervating influences of philanthropy."

NOT A REFUGE.

9. The emigration solution cannot solve the Russian Jewish problem in its entirety, and Zionism, representing a migration scheme, has nothing to offer in that direction."

Zionism is not a migration scheme in the sense in which the term is commonly used, nor is it an effort to provide a temporary home of refuge for the persecuted in Russia. It aims to solve the problem of the Jewish race by the acceleration of Jewish self-consciousness. Of course when this self-consciousness is developed, when the preliminary work of our movement has ploughed the way for free access to Palestine, with the guarantees for a free, autonomous state, the persecuted will most likely be in the first ranks of the returning exiles. Persecution is the ever present shadow accompanying the fact of the existence of the Jew."

AMERICANIZATION.

10. Zionism retards the perfect Americanization of recent Jewish immigrants, whose success and happiness depend upon their absorption, apart from their faith, into the American people."

Perfect Americanization should be defined. With some Americans perfect Americanization means intermarriage and a State religion. With some Jews perfect Americanization means a complete negation of the historical and natural evolution of Jewry. If Americanization means forgetting Jewry and throwing overboard the historical values of our people, then we are glad of the fact that Zionism retards it. But if Americanization means the consciousness of one's own immediate interests, as far as they are interwoven with the political and industrial life of this country, then Zionism does undoubtedly help the newcomer to understand that his value as a citizen depends upon the consciousness of his Jewish affiliation and of the fact that he is entitled and in duty bound to become a free citizen, who is able and willing to assert his individuality. We are sorry that there is not enough effort made to inform newcomers of the actual character of American ideals and institutions. Zionism means to produce a stronger individual Jew, a self-assertive man, and not one who is passively submissive under wrong, even in the state of alleged freedom, and this also is the aim of democracy in America. That man who is willing to abdicate all that the rest has done to make him can be neither a Zionist nor a free American citizen."

IS DEFENDING.

Mr. Schiff's letter seems to be a complete defense of the status quo of the Jewish people. Twelve million people cannot be transported to any one geographical center; therefore a solution that includes the entire Jewish race is impossible, and consequently each group must shift for itself. Statistics will show that of the twelve million Jews about ten million live in a state of persecution and oppression. Probably Mr. Schiff speaks in the name of the favored two million.

The dilemma that confronts Mr. Schiff is the alternative of accepting the theory of complete assimilation or that of strict orthodoxy. But Mr. Schiff does not believe in complete assimilation and proclaims himself a Jew. And the adoption of strict orthodoxy means a return to the Ghetto policy of building a wall about the Hebrew law which will create a spiritual separatism advocated by Zionism. Mr. Schiff virtually disclaimed orthodoxy in his Chautauqua address.

W. P. USES A HUGE SHOVEL

Railroad Operating Novel Piece of Machinery in Butte and Plumas Counties.

On difficult mountain construction work in Butte and Plumas counties, the Western Pacific people are making rapid progress. On one of the largest tunnels, the Spring Garden, the company is putting on more men and machinery every week. It has just established camp 34 at Twelve-Mile bar. A big steam shovel has just been moved to that point and is ready to run.

Eight four-horse teams are on the way from Oroville loaded with machinery for Quincy. About 100 men are employed there. The company will soon put in a 1200-foot air compressor with which to drive the 1800-foot tunnel about a mile east of the old Spanish Creek bridge. At the new Spanish Creek bridge a log crib 3700 feet long has been completed, and the sixty-five-ton Bucyrus shovel will be used in filling this cribbing. This mammoth shovel is a curiosity to experts. Never before has a shovel of this size been moved sixty miles overland from a railroad.

CLAIM A RECORD.

The Utah Construction Company, which is building the road in that section, lays claim to the record for several other shovels now working in the Feather River canyon. The company finished the wagon road from Oroville to Rich Bar on September 27th and expects to complete the road to Mill Creek by October 29th. It also expects at that time to have the wagon road completed from the Pockett ranch to the old Spanish Creek bridge. The big cut at the lower end of Long Valley, this side of Beckwith, is nearly completed by the sub-contractors. At one point this excavation is about fifty feet deep. The material taken therefrom is used to make a fill. The roadbed is about completed from the end of the Boca and Loyalton branch to the site of the Reno Mill and Lumber Company. It is presumed that the Boca and Loyalton track will be laid to that point as soon as possible, thus enabling the Western Pacific to ship construction material over the line that far west.

Heinze to Renew His Old Fight.

The recent trapping of F. Augustus Heinze in the United Copper corner which precipitated the week's flurry in Wall Street, slumped all stocks manipulated there and swamped several banks dealing largely in speculative securities, promises to revive the fight between him and the Amalgamated Copper Company, controlled by Rockefeller, Rogers and their Standard Oil associates. Helena, Mont., has received the report from Heinze that he is about to return there for that purpose. The contending parties settled their differences about two years ago on a financial basis, Heinze being then bought off on his own terms. In the United Copper deal the Amalgamated ring pulled back the money with interest.

Now Heinze is out for revenge in a field where he has always proved himself to be the superior in every contest in which he took a hand. Butte promises, therefore, to become once more the storm center of copper speculation. Heinze is, probably, better equipped for war than he was before, because he has obtained a clear insight during the past two years into the Wall Street methods of his old adversaries.

Before he forced a compromise which put an end two years ago to the long-standing litigation which had been bitterly fought at the polls and the Legislatures and the courts, he had an immensely superior knowledge of everything relating to the properties owned by the Amalgamated than the Standard Oil magnates possessed themselves. In all probability the man who single-handedly fought Marcus Daly, Senator Clark and the Amalgamated ring to a successful finish in the Butte copper field and whipped the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company and its allies in the Kootenai and Rossland, B. C., copper districts, will add new triumphs in the coming struggle in which he is about to engage. Heinze is the hardest man to down who ever operated in the speculative copper properties in the Northwest where he has hitherto proved invincible.

Sequel of the Vancouver Riots.

The Japanese merchants who were mobbed in Vancouver, B. C., during the recent racial rioting which occurred there, put up a rather raw job against the Dominion government to collect more damages than their due. But a sharp-witted commissioner sent from Ottawa to adjust the indemnity which Japan could have collected from the Dominion under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese treaty nipped the job in the bud. The Japanese merchants had set their losses at $15,000. The commissioner found, however, that one-fourth of the amount claimed was for damages to property which they did not own and which they occupied merely as tenants. He, therefore, cut it out of their bill, by ruling that the Dominion shall pay them only for what losses they actually suffered through the destruction of merchandise and other personal property by the mob. The recovery of damages for the breaking of store windows and the battering down of doors must be sought by owners of the property from the municipality. If these property-owners were in league with the Japanese in the job, and used them as catspaws to enable the double collection of damages, which is possible although scarcely probable, they have also been outwitted by the commissioner. They can get nothing from the Dominion and their sole remedy now to recover their share of damages is to sue the city of Vancouver which forces them to prove up a lot of things in order to make the collection.

Andrew Carnegie is apparently in danger of losing his job as Lord Rector of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, as he has a dangerous rival for the position, which is strictly a post of honor, in the candidacy of Lord Avebury, better known by his former title—Sir John Lubbock. Carnegie has held the Lord Rectorship for several years, although he continues to claim to be an American citizen. His rival is, on the other hand, one of the most distinguished naturalists Great Britain has produced in the last fifty years or more. Hitherto Carnegie has had no opposition for the Lord Rectorship. But the nomination of Lubbock on Friday indicates that there is an element in the university control which has grown tired of Carnegie. The recent exposures of the ways of "high and frenzied finance" have doubtless affected the popularity of Carnegie who, it has been revealed, has acquired his colossal fortune through some of the methods which have been publicly condemned. The election takes place on November 1.

RAILROADS ARE PUT TO BLAME

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Fixes Responsibility of Financial Flurry.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 25.—Speculative financing as a controlling factor in railroad financing was denounced as fatal to the prosperity of the country by E. K. Clark, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in an address delivered last night before the Traffic club. Going into the causes of the present stock and money troubles, as they affect the railroads, Mr. Clark declared that it was not President Roosevelt's policy but the policy of the lawbreakers who have been exposed that were to blame for the flurry. The president's policy, he said, was that of the square deal, and those who wished to profit by it should also be willing to give one.

RAILROADS FAIL.
"The railroads have signally failed to keep up facilities for moving freight with the increasing business of the country," said Mr. Clark. "This is partly due to the unprecedented increase in the volume of business to be handled. The more important reason, however, is the speculative financing which almost without exception controls the country's railroads. Roads probably never will keep pace with business developments until they cease to be operated as speculation. It is imperative that they furnish proper facilities for getting on a solid business basis." "Many persons have declared it is the president's policy which is responsible for the present difficulties in the financial world. They hold the president responsible for the shrinkage in values, saying his policy has frightened investors. I do not subscribe to this belief. If it were true, however, I should not move the president one iota from his purpose of prosecuting violators of the law."

"Railroad regulation by State and National government, each in its proper sphere, is essential. Such regulation must be done sane, reasonable and just. The railroads must make uniform rules, not necessarily the same at all seasons of the year as business changes with the months, but uniform to all shippers."

HALL OF JUSTICE TO BE TORN DOWN
(Special to THE TRIBUNE)

SAN FRANCISCO, October 25.—President Casey, of the Board of Public Works, has decided to have the Hall of Justice taken down entirely, despite the suggestion of John Barnett, Superintendent of Construction, that a large part of the building might be repaired.

Specifications were prepared and approved today by Casey in which contractors will be invited to bid on the work. These specifications provide for razing the building to the level of the basement floor, or the sub-basement floor, where there is one. All the debris is to be removed from the sidewalks and the street roadways adjoining, except that the steel cells on the top floor are to be lowered to the sidewalk and left there, after being taken apart, together with the boilers in the basement. The city authorities will then take charge of the work. All other material is to go to the contractors.

Specifications were also approved yesterday for the removal of the Larkin-street wing down to the granite base.

UTE INDIANS GO ON WARPATH IN DAKOTA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Captain Carter P. Johnson, Second Cavalry, stationed at Fort Robinson, Neb., has started for the Cheyenne river reservation in South Dakota, to use his influence with the troublesome Ute Indians, with a view to suppressing the outbreak. A telegram from Assistant Clerk Craig, in charge of the Cheyenne river reservation, says that Clerk Russell has gone to the scene of trouble with twenty armed men and that fears are entertained that communication had been cut off between the Ute terminal at White Horse and Thunderbutte, where the Indians are located.

Second Dreyfus Affair.

The French government has on its hands a case in the navy which strongly resembles the Dreyfus affair in the army. The principal is a naval ensign, named Charles Ullmo, who, like Dreyfus, is a Jew, and he is accused of a similar offense. Dreyfus, it will be remembered, was accused of betraying military secrets to Germany, for a monetary consideration. After a sensational military trial, he was convicted, degraded from the army in the presence of 5000 troops and transported to Devil's Island, off the coast of French Guiana, under a life sentence. His conviction was based on the identification of the handwriting of what passed into history as "the famous bordereau" as that of his own. Dreyfus never wavered in the assertion of his entire innocence of the charge made against him from the moment of his arrest.

After four years of the agony of solitary confinement, in one of the most inhospitable spots on earth under the scorching rays of an equatorial sun, Dreyfus was granted a new trial, as the result of the untiring efforts of a devoted wife and his friends who had been able to gather sufficient evidence to warrant the suspicion that he was the victim of a conspiracy formed by an anti-Jewish military cabal. One of the minor figures in the conspiracy committed suicide in a fit of remorse or to avoid the exposure which seemed inevitable. The conspiracy was well established, however. The proof was made conclusively that the "bordereau" was a forgery and that Esterhazy, one of the tools of the cabal was the author. Esterhazy fled to escape the penalty of his crime and took refuge in England, where he still remains in exile, not daring to return to France. The Court of Cassation's findings reversed those of the military court martial at Rennes, headed by General Mercier, which had consigned Dreyfus for life to the Isle de Diabolo. Mercier was thereupon compelled to resign from the army, while Colonel Picquart, the former chief of police in Paris, who had been persistent in his defense of Dreyfus' innocence and had been removed from office in consequence of his friendship for that unfortunate officer, was given a high command in the army as a sop for his unjust humiliation. And, to let itself down easy, the government granted Dreyfus a pardon and gave him his liberty, which was only half justice, because he was not restored to the army and his rank as captain. Later on, at a time when public opinion in France has become thoroughly convinced of his innocence, Dreyfus demanded his restoration to the army, which the government did by promoting him to the rank of major in the artillery, the branch of the service whence he had been degraded when unrighteously convicted by the Rennes court martial, as partial compensation for the wrong he had suffered. A few weeks ago, he voluntarily resigned, his health having been so shattered during the four years he spent on Devil's Island, that he had been since totally unfitted for active service.

But the difference between the case of Dreyfus and that of Naval Ensign Ullmo and another officer named Burton, a confederate, both of whom are under arrest, is that they have been caught redhanded with the evidence of their crime in their possession. Moreover, Ullmo has confessed to having abstracted a secret naval signal book and the naval cipher code. In his lodgings were also found complete plans for the mobilization of the French navy, the location of harbor mines to be planted in the event of war and photographs of the famous 75-millimeter field gun which the Esterhazy forged "bordereau" indicated Dreyfus had forwarded to the German military authorities, while Burton is charged with negotiating with the agent of a foreign power for the sale of presumably these military secrets. Both arrests are the result of Ullmo's bold attempt to "hold up" the French Minister of Marine by offering to sell him certain important military documents for 150,000 francs which he threatened he would sell to a foreign power in the event his offer was declined. The foreign power's identity has been studiously concealed by the French government for the same reason that prompted it from exposing Germany in the part she played in the negotiations reputed to have been carried on in the Dreyfus affair by Esterhazy and his co-conspirators, namely, the fear of precipitating war. There is little doubt, however, that if Burton negotiated the transfer of the Ullmo documents and photographs with any foreign power, it was with Germany, for there is no other European power with which the relations of France are today in the least strained. Germany is suspected of being the negotiator, for the reason that she is keeping a jealous eye on the operations of France and Spain in Morocco.

The arrival of the big German steamer Aker at Redondo with a cargo of railroad ties for the Los Angeles Pacific electric railway is a remarkable illustration of the vagaries of commerce, for it occurs while we are exporting the manufactured products of our own forests to the Orient and other foreign lands. It is, however, suggestive of the fact that the extensive inroads which are being made on our redwood and pine forests on this coast are increasing the difficulties of keeping up the supply and advancing the cost of delivery so that remote countries like Japan, where labor is cheap, are able to enter our domestic markets and undersell our own lumber producers, notwithstanding the handicap of the long voyage across the Pacific.

he Utes Giving Trouble.

It is a long time since the government has had any serious trouble with the Indian tribes, all of which are now either rounded up in Indian territory or located on reservations where the older members of the tribes are capable of being controlled and the younger generations are being taught the arts of peace and modern civilization in order to enable them to become self-supporting and useful members of the nation. The only discordant Indian note heard for years has, within the past week, been heard in South Dakota where the Utes located on the Cheyenne river reservation are reported to be in a state of unrest and threatening to go on the war-path, if in deed they have not already done so. There are unpleasant rumors afloat in that State coupled with the murdering of the sergeant in charge of the distribution of rations among the tribe, and the scalping of settlers in the neighborhood of the reservation. Troops are being rushed to the scene of trouble, the cause of which has not been clearly stated in the dispatches received from there.

One thing is certain, however, there can never more be any serious Indian war started in this country. The more warlike tribes, those which were constantly giving trouble to the government—such as the Arizona Apaches—have been removed to sections of the country remote from their former homes where, for the want of familiarity with their present surroundings and the absence there of such natural strongholds as existed in their native habitat, they are incapable of carrying on a successful war against the whites or any other race. Many of the older members of these savage tribes have, moreover, died since their removal to the reservations, and their surviving contemporaries are too old and infirm to take to the war-path. The younger generations have, meantime, received a fair education in schools established expressly for their benefit, been taught useful trades and the art of tilling the soil; and, whenever any of them evinces a fitness or an ambition for acquiring a knowledge of "the higher education," means have been provided for gratifying it in institutions founded and supported for the purpose by a paternal government. The object is, of course, to make them useful members of society and qualify them as individuals, no longer maintaining or desiring to maintain their tribal relations, to enter upon the duties, privileges and responsibilities of citizenship by being merged in the body of the nation.

Most of the former Indian wars were instigated by designing persons who profited from government contracts to supply the troops employed in the disturbed territory, or through the dishonesties of corrupt and unscrupulous reservation agents under lax supervision, whose conduct toward the wards of the nation under their care sowed among them the seed of discord and disaffection. The government's supervision of the Indian agencies for many years past has been much stricter than it was formerly and the opportunities for abusing the trust reposed in those in charge have been rare. Besides, whenever the reservation Indians have a grievance to lodge against their agents, they have in later years learned how to present it in a quarter where they can obtain relief. The Ute trouble is doubtless something which can be quickly and easily adjusted without resorting to extreme measures.

Western Pacific Starts in Business.

Before completing the road for general traffic, the Western Pacific Railroad Company hauled the first shipment of commercial freight on its lines in this State on Thursday from New Hope, located in the northern part of San Joaquin county, to Stockton. The shipment consisted, it is true, of only three carloads of wool; but, although small, it was full of significance, as it marks the beginning of the competition for traffic in this State in which the new transportation corporation will be fully engaged within less than a year. This competition promises to exert a great influence in the development of the resources of the central and northern counties of the State and to prove of incalculable value to the cities generally through which the main trunk of the Western Pacific passes and the territory tributary to its numerous branches and particularly to Oakland, where the company has acquired such extensive terminal facilities.

THE OLD SKIPPER

Tells How He Rode a Tortoise To Port When Lost Overboard

BY JACK WISHAAR.

"About the most peculiar experience that ever I had at sea happened when I was master of the pretty little brigantine Sadie," said the old skipper, thoughtfully whittling off chips from the plug of Black Navy. "This happened on a voyage from Yokohama to Sydney, Australia, and my life was saved by a tortoise."

"Yes, sir, and what was more I had two weeks on shore with money enough to spend and have a good time."

"We had left Yokohama and were bowling along at a ten knot clip with a fair wind on the quarter just south of the Philippines. But it was not as the hobbs of it. The nights were particularly warm. There was also a heavy swell running. I slung a hammock in the mizzen rigging to try and sleep without being roasted as it was too hot to go below. I hadn't more than got to sleep when the ship gave an awful pitch and roll and threw me clear overboard. By the time I got my eyes clear of salt water the lights of the ship were disappearing in the distance and the vessel was too far away for the crew to hear my shouts. No one had seen me go overboard and the fellow at the wheel was half asleep."

"I said to myself that it was all off with me and that I was booked for Davy Jones locker this time sure. I swam along as well as I could, wonderin' how long I would be able to keep up. Suddenly I saw a big black object not far away and then I recognized that it was a big tortoise asleep. I swam over very quietly and then slipping beneath the big fellow, managed to grab his neck. Then I knew I was alright. You know when you get hold of a tortoise's neck he can't go down. I climbed on the big turtle's back and with my suspenders rigged a bit and bridle for this submarine steed. He bucked and kicked like old Neptune himself but I hung on. Sitting on his back I soon had him going along nicely. On my watch chain I had a compass and with this I laid a course for Sydney. You know these tortoises can swim at the rate of about thirty miles an hour when they want to. Well, I prodded up my turtle and the way he cut through the water was a caution. It was only the next day that we passed New Guinea. I fixed it so that by strapping the bridle to my neck I could lay on the turtle's back and sleep. I also trained him to catch fish which I ate. It happened to rain and this gave me water enough to drink. The sea was calm and the weather fine and we went so fast we didn't feel the heat. Well, sir, in three days I passed the heads of Sidney harbor and was soon up at the circular key, the big wharf where all the liners land. I sold the tortoise for $300 and with this I lived for two weeks. At the end of that time I saw the Sadie come in and went out to meet her. Say but those fellows on board thought I was a ghost when they saw me climb over the rail and a couple of them started to pray. Yes, I guess that was one of the most peculiar experiences in my career at sea."

BIG CARGO FOR AUSTRALASIA

Steamer Sails Today With 1000 Tons of Merchandise and 1,600,000 Feet of Lumber.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—The Aeon with the largest cargo of merchandise that ever left this port for Australasia, and with one of the largest consignments of mail as well, the British steamer Aeon will depart early Sunday morning from China Basin wharf for Auckland direct calling later at Sydney and going thence to Newcastle to load a return cargo of coal for this city.

MUCH CANNED GOODS.
On board the Aeon is a vast assortment of canned goods and other merchandise amounting to 4000 tons and this is in addition to a shipment of 1,600,000 feet of lumber that was taken on board a Puget Sound. Notable items of the local freight are 33,000 cases of salmon, 12,000 cases of apples, 3000 cases of oranges and an immense lot of dried fruit. The loading of this cargo has been in progress night and day for the past few hours. The mail is from Great Britain as well as from this country and consists of more than 400 bags. Scores of parcels are also being forwarded to the colonies by the Aeon which belongs to the White Star line. The steamer is a non-huller in the Coast to Australasia.

PRESIDENT REACHES PORT
Nearly 400 passengers, many of them from the Aeon and Yukon river points arrived this evening on the liner President of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's fleet. The steamer from Seattle where the President left some of her Alaska passengers has been reported at intervals by wireless. The last message being sent out from the steamer at a clock this morning when the President was thirty miles southwest of Cape Mendocino, the weather being clear at the time.

MARCONI DREAM REALIZED

WIRELESS STATIONS OPEN FOR TRANSATLANTIC BUSINESS.

Messages Were Transmitted Between Glace Bay, Nova Scotia and Clifden, Ireland—Congratulations Exchanged Between Continents.

Wireless communication across the Atlantic for news and business purposes was in accordance with the promise of Marconi, the inventor, on October 17. From 2 o'clock in the afternoon there was a constant exchange of messages between the station at Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, and the one at Clifden, Ireland.

Numerous press dispatches were sent to and from the system seemed to work with complete efficiency. There was no hitch or delay and though the maximum speed promised was not reached, dispatches were transmitted at a rate of twenty words a minute for each instant of time.

The great enterprise was started with out formality of any sort. Indeed, the circumstances were depressing, for Mr. Hankyn, one of the experts who has aided Signor Marconi in perfecting his plant, was lying near by between life and death, stricken with pneumonia. The chances of his recovery were very small. It was in this account that the festivities which were to have marked the event were cancelled at the last hour. There were present, however, numerous news paper men and some scientists, guests of Signor Marconi.

The first message sent in opening the new service was from Sir Walter Laurier, premier of Canada, congratulating the English people on the new achievement of science which means to the people of the day what the laying of the first Atlantic cable did to those of a generation ago.

The message was addressed to the Lord Strathcona and was relayed to the Irish coast by London on the inland telegraph. After the transmission of the first eastward message an English dispatch to Canada was received and the station was declared formally open.

Numerous press dispatches were forwarded to England. Among those received were congratulations from the Lord Mayor of London, Sir J. C. E. of the D. of Argyll and the Canadian High Commissioner Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal. Several hundred private messages were offered at both ends but the company refused to accept any but news dispatches.

Free exhibitions are now being given at Maple Hall at the corner of Fourteenth and Webster streets, evenings at 8 o'clock with the instruments on exhibition daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Wednesday is the last day so be in attendance before then.

FEDERAL HELP FOR EXPORTERS

Secretary Straus Will Appeal to Congress Urging Financial Assistance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—With a view to rendering practical aid to the commercial and industrial interests of the United States and to the promoting of the foreign commerce of this country, Secretary Straus of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has caused to be prepared a pamphlet by Mr. I. Stone, the tariff expert of the bureau of manufactures. The pamphlet contains a study of the commercial union and condition together with a statement of the results already achieved by the Department of Commerce and Labor in promoting American foreign commerce.

ASKS CONGRESS' AID
It urges that Congress be brought to a realization of the magnitude and the importance of this task and give it support with funds commensurate with the work to be done.

Secretary Straus has invited the Chamber of Commerce and Boards of Trade of twenty of the leading cities of the country to appoint committees to meet here December to consider with him ways and means of accomplishing these objects.

ROBBERS HOLD UP BARTENDER

Masked Men Rob Till but Do Not Even Search the Customers

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
SACRAMENTO, Oct. 26.—Two masked men, one tall and the other short, held up three men in James McCarthy's saloon late last night and took $80 from the till. Neither of the two patrons of the saloon were searched. You look like poor men, said the robber that acted as spokesman, and we can't wait here. The hold-up men rapidly pressed their revolvers against the bartender's body to warn him that they meant business. As they went away they warned the three men in the saloon that if any one of them spoke to the street door within an hour he would be shot. The robbers were still a large

Indications Are That Langdon Is Badly Beaten

THE KNAVE

Biggy Closes Down the Lid to Try and Stop Examiner

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—"Fussy Wussy" Taylor is getting more votes every day. In addition to the people of Belvedere, Sausalito, Berkeley, Alameda, Elmhurst and Melrose, the members of the Japanese and Chinese colonies are now for him to a man.

If you go into a Japanese restaurant, the waiter asks you to vote for Dr. Taylor. When your Chinese laundryman comes around, he tells you he will do a better job with your soiled clothes than Chief of Police Biggy could do if you promise to cast your ballot for "Fussy Wussy."

As the new arrivals leave their ships and pass through the Immigration Bureau, they are wild in their acclaim for the doctor. Unless Taylor is elected, they say, San Francisco will go to pieces. They would not have left their native land if they had not been assured the doctor will be Mayor.

Besides these, all the women are for Dr. Taylor. They declare he must be elected, and if it takes two cups of coffee for each voter, they will stay up all night to make it and see that it is properly served at the polls. They are now sending out circulars to the effect that if you don't vote for Dr. Taylor you won't get any coffee on election day, and when you have voted for Dr. Taylor, the women guarantee to give you a plate of ice cream and a lady finger.

In the meantime, the doctor is writing a poem on the glory of his election. The poem is to be dedicated to Jimmy Phelan and "Ruddy" Spreckels. The poem will be peddled by "Gumshoe" Burns, who has just laid in a large supply of tealead to be certain of the curl of his mustache during the rainy season.

For a week previous to the date of "The Examiner's" declaration for Ryan, the lid was off the tenderloin. But since the monarch of the dailies has come out for the Native Son, "Gumshoe" Burns, through his agent, Alec Greggains, the prizefighter, has screwed the lid of the line down so tight that you could not pry it open with an immunity contract.

Before "The Examiner" declared itself, there seemed to be an impression about town, especially among the detectives in the employ of Ruddy Spreckels, that the paper was to remain neutral during the campaign. Such being the case, the graft prosecution decided that it would be a good idea to let the tenderloin run wide open in order to gain the support of the thugs and toughs and sure-thing gamblers and the booze-fighters for "Fussy Wussy" Taylor.

Accordingly Alec Greggains peddled the information to the dive-keepers, the gamblers and the roustabouts of the night life that if Taylor is elected the town will be run wide open, and as a guarantee of good faith, he told everybody concerned in illicit business to do as they liked and to run their games in open violation of the law.

"There will be no disturbance," said Alec to the thugs, "because Biggy has received word to keep his hands off. Taylor is in favor of a wide-open town, and you can't set a pace too fast to satisfy the old guy because Burns has been pumping a ginger tonic into him and he is as spry and frisky as a two-year-old."

So all the games were opened and the 1 o'clock bar was removed from the playing of music in the dives, the doors to the opium dens were unlocked, and the town took on all the hurdy-gurdy phases of a merry-go-round. For six nights Fillmore street and the neighboring thoroughfares resembled a mining camp. Faro, craps, stud-poker, black-jack, chuck-luck, fan-tan, roulette and all the other games and devices known to the sure-thing gambler ran in full blast. But as soon as "The Examiner" came out for Ryan, "Washerwoman" Biggy received word from the prosecution that the lid had to be put back on the tenderloin because if it was not "The Examiner" would expose the whole business and precipitate the defeat of "Fussy Wussy." In twelve hours there was not a gambling game running in the city. The music masters of the dives stopped playing at 1 o'clock and Fillmore street was as quiet as a graveyard after midnight.

P. H. McCarthy has scored nightly hard on the prosecution in the rough and tumble manner in which he has been handling Chief of Police Biggy.

McCarthy has not only dwelt upon the incompetency of the famous "washerwoman," but he is using his scheme to make the policemen work twelve hours a day with great effect.

I never could understand why Biggy was so foolish as to change the schedule of the policemen's hours from eight to twelve a day.

The Union Labor people and even the government have already declared that eight hours is a complete day for work and no one ought to be expected to work any longer than that unless they are paid adequately for overtime. But Mr. Biggy, who evidently thinks that he is of more consequence than the wishes of the workingmen and the government combined, has decided that the policemen must work twelve hours a day for $100 a month.

Of course the members of the force love him for this arbitrary ruling and will do all in their power to elect old "Fussy Wussy"—not.

In addition to the Police Department, the firemen are out with hammers for Taylor, and if they accomplish what they claim they are able to, the venerable poet will be third in the race.

However, the most spectacular fight of the campaign is being made by Frank McGowan, who already looks like a sure winner. In fact, the betting on the District Attorney's fight is livelier than that for Mayor. Every place McGowan goes he makes friends. He is the idol of the Union Labor people and in fact gets a much more hearty reception at their meetings than is accorded McCarthy.

In addition to attacking the alleged graft prosecution, Ruddy Spreckels, Phelan and Langdon, McGowan tells a lot of stories and keeps his hearers in roars of laughter. He makes four or five speeches a night and during the daytime calls on his friends and urges them to go out and make a house to house campaign. In addition to the workingmen, McGowan will have behind him the support of the conservative business men.

At an executive meeting of the Good Government League held the other night, it was decided to take a straw vote for Mayor and for District Attorney. There were thirty members present, and Taylor got thirty votes. McGowan got twenty-eight and Langdon two.

They tell me when "Muley" heard of the result he was so exercised he was almost on the level with himself for the first time in his life.

The graft prosecution is making no secret of its efforts to drag the Ford trial along until after the election. That the acquittal of Ford is expected by all who are watching the proceedings and that such acquittal, coming before November 5, would clinch the now almost certain defeat of Langdon, are facts that rise like the hogey man to dismay the self-constituted prosecutors. Heney's message to Los Angeles, where he is to appear as private counsel for Fremont Older in the suit brought against the latter by Luther Brown, that "the Ford trial will last all next week and perhaps longer" is significant. If Heney can help it the acquittal of Ford shall not be permitted to give additional swing to the ax of the voters, disgusted by the fostering of private spites under guise of zeal for public welfare.

"The surprise of this election will be the smallness of the vote cast for Langdon," said a close political observer to me yesterday. "He will not only be beaten, but snowed under. In the business districts he is going to get terribly salted, and the labor people are almost solid against him."

My own investigations lead me to believe that a majority of Taylor's supporters are against the District Attorney—the business men and old-line Democrats are particularly bitter against him.

Some of Langdon's friends admit that he is weak with the business element, but claim he will get a large percentage of the labor vote. This is strenuously denied by all of McCarthy's adherents. On the other hand Casey, Gallagher, Cornelius and the other job holders under the Taylor administration assert that from 25 to 30 per cent of the labor vote will go to Langdon.

At Union Labor headquarters this statement is scouted as absurd. From 2 to 5 per cent is the limit of the allowance there for the District Attorney.

Burns' talk about keeping Jews off the juries in the graft trials has created intense feeling against Langdon in certain quarters.

In another quarter the anxiety shown by the prosecution to keep Free Masons off the Ford jury has aroused anger and indignation. Said a prominent member of the Masonic order—an official of high rank—"Do Langdon and Heney propose to establish the rule that a member of the Masonic order is unfit to sit on a jury? Is that what they mean by asking talesmen if they are Masons? Why don't they ask whether they are Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Native Sons, Elks, Eagles, Knights of Columbus or members of any other secret society?"

So you see it is not all plain sailing for the District Attorney. Nor is he helped in his fight by the supervision over his office and conduct exercised by Rudolph Spreckels and William J. Burns.

If anybody expects to learn the actual facts regarding Langdon's campaign he will search the San Francisco papers in vain for them. According to the local papers Langdon receives an ovation wherever he speaks.

Such is not the case. The crowds he addresses are almost invariably called together to hear some other candidate. Langdon does his stunt after the main squeeze gets through and he frequently gets a very cold deal.

The other night in the Richmond District Langdon was literally howled down when he tried to speak. He was hooted and hissed till he lost his temper and quit in disgust.

"You have got Calhoun's money in your pocket," he shouted in his rage.

"We've got none of Spreckels', but you have, large wads of it," roared back the crowd.

When Langdon goes around alone he is subjected to many rough gibes, such as "Where's your friend, Gallagher?" "How much does an immunity contract cost?" "Are you for Ryan or Taylor?"

"I am for Langdon," is his stock response to the last question. And that's the truth.

The Mayoralty fight is a gay old mix-up. Opinions are as plentiful as blackberries in July, and as varied as Langdon's politics. The wide difference in the estimates make one gasp with amazement.

"The fight is between Ryan and Taylor," say some.

"It is between McCarthy and Taylor," say the Taylorites.

"The contest is now between Ryan and McCarthy—Taylor is out of it," said an enthusiastic supporter of the Call's forsaken young Napoleon.

Perhaps a little cold figuring will help one to guess somewhere near the truth. A little over 77,000 names are on the register. An average of 76 per cent of the registered vote has been cast at the last four municipal elections. This year it is not expected that more than 75 per cent will be cast.

On this basis the total poll will not exceed 57,000. Making due allowance for the Socialists, Prohibitionists, scattering, etc., there will be about 50,000 votes to divide between Ryan, Taylor and McCarthy.

On a 75 basis the Union Labor vote will be about 18,000. If McCarthy could get it solid he would be a sure winner, for experience has demonstrated that the labor ticket draws a considerable sympathetic vote, mainly from small shopkeepers, saloomen, policemen, firemen and others connected with the laboring class by ties of blood and interest.

But Casey, Eagan, Gallagher and Cornelius say McCarthy will not poll more than 75 per cent of the labor vote cast. Some say less. Casey and Eagan's estimates allow McCarthy between 13,000 and 14,000 labor votes—not enough to win without the aid of 6000 or 8000 sympathetic votes.

McCarthy's friends say the labor defection will not exceed 2 per cent.

"The Union Labor vote will be practically solid and straight," they assert. They also count on several thousand other votes. Organized labor is figuring to give him from 18,000 to 20,000 votes.

The truth is somewhere between what McCarthy claims and what his enemies are willing to allow him. It is possible for 17,000 votes to elect the Mayor, but not probable. The figures when Schmitz was elected the first time, speaking in round numbers, were 21,000, 17,000 and 12,000. A close division of the vote that year would have allowed 18,000 votes to win.

Taylor has a solid strength of several thousand business men, but I don't believe he is going to get many Union Labor votes—not nearly so many as Ryan, at least, and Ryan is likely to draw more heavily from the business element than has been bargained for. One thing is certain, Ryan's fight is looking up, and is assuming a formidable aspect to both his antagonists.

Still there may be a landslide any direction.

NOTED PIONEER VISITOR HERE

Oldest Attorney in Sacramento Comes to Secure Medical Attention.

Richard M. Clark, judge of the township justice court of Sacramento, and the oldest practicing attorney in the capital city, is enroute at the Touraine hotel, where he is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Emma Horner. Judge Clark is one of the best known lawyers in California and in his younger days was considered one of the most brilliant orators of the day. His contemporaries in the Legislature in 1875-8 were J. G. Maguire, Judge J. H. Coffey, Judge Slack and other distinguished men of the California bar.

Judge Clark was a friend of Stephen A. Douglas. On November 3, 1854, the day Lincoln was elected President of the United States, Judge Clark left Kentucky, where he was educated, and later went into active practice of the law. For many years he taught school and engaged in journalism in this State.

Judge Clark is taking the rest cure now in this city, which he believes will cure a stomach trouble he has been suffering from for many years.

Oakland has shown more vitality and improvements within the last year or two than any other city in the State, said Judge Clark, "and Oakland cannot recede from its present position. It is destined to be a great metropolitan city."

WIZARD HAS NEW POTATO

Crop Now Being Harvested at His Farm Shows Fine Progress.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 26.—Out at Luther Burbank's farm, near Sebastopol, potato digging is in progress and the yield from hundreds of varieties of the tuber family is being exposed. It is expected that this season will find the efforts directed by the scientist toward the production of a new potato nearer the accomplishment of the desired end.

Mr. Burbank's desire is to have a potato that is impervious to disease, yielding a heavier crop and doing away with so many small potatoes.

For several years hundreds of varieties of tubers have been planted, and each season from the yield many have been saved for another trial, while others have been cast aside. These potatoes are a novel sight. They are of all sizes and shapes and of varied colors. They are big and little, crooked and straight, round and oblong, and they come from many countries. While it is not exactly a new potato that Burbank has developed, it is an improvement on the old.

He has no doubt that he will get his heart's desire and it will be another benefaction to the world at large, as all his creations have been.

Donald Cress, the well-known Eastern publisher, was a visitor at the Burbank residence yesterday.

INDICT OFFICIALS OF PAVING COMPANY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 26.—The Marion county grand jury today returned indictments against Henry Marshall of La Fayette, president of the Western Construction Company, and former speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives. George W. Baxter, cashier of the company, was indicted also.

The company has contracts with the city of Indianapolis for repairing asphalt on asphalt paved streets. Harry Brunaugh, agent of the company, charged with padding the inspector's reports was brought back from Detroit today whether he had fled.

WHO OWNS BARREL OF BOOKS AND CLOTHING

The police have a barrel of clothing and books which they are holding until a claimant, who can prove title to the property, appears. The barrel was found standing on the platform at the Southern Pacific depot on the corner of First and Broadway. The agent says that the barrel had been standing there for several days, and as he had no instructions concerning it, he decided to turn it over to the police.

On the fly leaf of one of the books is written the word "Flores." The police believe this may furnish a clue to the ownership of the property.

FRENCH CLUB GIVES BANQUET

Members of L'Union Francaise Gather in Annual Meet and Laud Adopted Land.

French-American citizens to the number of 150 gathered in the American-Italian restaurant last night for their annual banquet. Affection for the land of the "Little Corporal" and a patriotic interest in their adopted country was the keynote of speeches delivered by the members of L'Union Francaise d'Oakland.

An address of welcome was delivered by E. Leger, president of the society, in which the prosperity of the French in the United States was pointed out. M. Leger also touched on the increasing immigration of his countrymen to the United States, and the fact that the society had enrolled 65 new members this year.

TELLS OF SUCCESS.

M. I. D. Palen, former president of the society, responded to one of the toasts, and with the grace and facility of expression characteristic of his race told of the success attained by the French who have taken residence in America. The fact that Attorney General Bonaparte was a descendant of the Great Napoleon, was also touched upon in the course of the address.

P. Cullen, M. Luginski, C. Artergas and M. Coudelle, were among those who responded to toasts.

The decorations consisted of the red, white and blue of France, intermingled with American flags. Flowers also were abundantly used in the decorations.

COURTIER USES GUN ON HUBBY

Salesman Surprised When Wounding Another's Wife Draws His Revolver.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 26.—A traveling salesman, C. E. Turner, caught by P. Princeville of this city, paying court to his wife in her bedroom, was arrested this afternoon by the latter on a charge of having made threats against his life.

Turner, according to the story told by Princeville, should fight when he was found in Mrs. Princeville's company and showed a revolver in her husband's face.

RECEIVES BEATING.

After the preliminary squall, Turner is said to have given Princeville a severe beating. When the salesman left the room he was closely followed by the aggrieved husband who as soon as he met with a policeman, insisted on Turner's arrest. The policeman took both men with him to the city jail. Princeville was released as soon as he had told his story, but Turner is still in custody. The salesman says that he called on Mrs. Princeville after she had invited him to her apartments by telephone.

He claims to have acted in self-defense, when he drew his revolver on Princeville.

Sybil Page's Return to Idora Pleases Her and the Many Friends She Has Made---It's a Happy Family That Idora Company.

By BETTY MARTIN.

Sybil Page makes an adorable Salvation Army lassie in "The Belle of New York." She looks the real article when she comes demurely forward among the worldly, in her gown of blue and bonnet with its simple band of red. Her subdued tread, the head slightly inclined forward, the suppressed smile are all very convincing, and when she opens the compressed lips to sing the spell is complete.

Of a truth, Sybil has learned something of the art of acting since her debut at Idora Park less than two years ago. I watched her from the front of the house, and at the close of her invocation sought the singer behind the footlights under escort of Manager Pilling.

"Here's Betty Martin come to talk with you, Miss Page," announced he, leading me to where she stood, side by side with Kenneth Mugg, who in real life answers to the name of Joe Fogarty, and who, from the intervening space, bestowed upon me a tragic smile in keeping with his part.

KIND OF ANGRY.

Miss Page, ears attentive for her cue, advanced with a half smile and outstretched hand. "Yes," said she, "and do you know I said I never would talk to Betty Martin again."

"Really? And what have I done to merit such punishment?"

Sybil drew me apart from the gayly gowned dancers pouring from between the adjacent flies. "Come here and I'll tell you all about it."

Then followed rapidly whispered words about the interview at the Columbia, to which I could only reply, "Is that so? Is that so?"

"Yes, indeed," declared she, nodding her head vigorously. "And now promise me this time that you won't say anything about 'love'—or—you know!"

"Certainly not, if you don't want me to."

"I'll have to go on in a minute. You go around to my dressing-room and sit down till I'm through. There's a big box of candy there; help yourself!"

"Same room you had before?"

WATCH THE ACT.

"The very same," she nodded gayly, and was once more before the footlights. However, having only recently returned from a haunt among the mountains of Lake county where a frog chorus was the only evening amusement, I preferred to watch the performance from a vantage point beside the electrician.

Queer that one should moralize while listening to anything so catchy as "The Belle of New York"—but somehow I couldn't help it. Each theatrical combination carries its own atmosphere, as truly as does one's home. And at Idora Park the atmosphere behind the scenes is one that any theatrical manager might be proud of.

The kindly feeling, the courtesy, and the consideration each shows for the other is pronounced. To one acquainted with the company much that is interesting is revealed in an occasional glimpse behind the scenes.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

For example, Ferris Hartman has two very charming sisters-in-law who sing in the chorus and occasionally play small parts. They are two little Chinese girls in this particular piece, and it looked very good to me to see the two of them walk off to their dressing room with their arms affectionately clasped about their mother, who had accompanied them to the theater.

And that is only one of the many little instances which might be told illustrative of the atmosphere at this little opera house. It was my privilege once to listen to Ferris Hartman when he addressed some of his people; he told them many things, but principally do I remember him saying that he and Paul Steindorff cherished many ideals in regard to an operatic company; that it was the dream of their lives to establish one in which good fellowship reigned supreme; where unselfishness was manifested and petty jealousies thrust aside.

REACHING STANDARD.

Eutopian, say you? Perhaps. But let me tell you, while the standard may never be realized, they're reaching up to it out at the park. The fall of the curtain interrupted my thoughts, and the sound of the dancers' feet, as they fled to the dressing rooms, died away as if by magic, the stagehands replaced the revellers, and there, in the midst of them, stood Sybil, with beckoning hand.

We stepped across to her dressing-room, in which were ensconced the faithful maid, and, comfortably seated in an arm-chair in the corner, the friend and chaperon who declared that she'd be afraid to "say one word." Later, however, she revoked, and said some very pleasant things, chiefly about Sybil, whom, said she, "we all love."

glass for one fitting moment, then turned to me, "Do I look innocent?" queried she, anxiously, as I scrutinized her appearance. It was my turn to suppress a smile, but, not having been schooled in the mimic art, the attempt was rather a failure, and ended in an audible laugh as I equivocated: "You look very modest; just like a Salvation Army girl."

tempt was rather a failure, and ended in an audible laugh as I equivocated: "You look very modest; just like a Salvation Army girl."

The little pucker between Sybil's large brown eyes disappeared. "Well, that's all right then," replied she, smilingly. "I don't believe myself that they can be innocent. But it's much better to know things, isn't it?"

"Much. Forewarned is forearmed," you know."

It was then that Sybil gave utterance to some pet theories advanced by Charlotte Perkins Stetson.

"I believe," said she, "that mothers are often more to blame than their daughters. They ought to be more frank with them, and tell them of the pitfalls." Here was philosophizing with a vengeance.

A SERIOUS TALK.

It's rather unusual for a girl to talk seriously of anything, expect, perhaps, a pink tea, and here was Sybil, the O.

of the light operatic stage, discussing affairs of this wicked world, and suggesting remedies.

"I have so many friends among women and children," added she, reflectively, "and I think so much of them. That box of candy—help yourself to some—was sent me by two dear little girls."

"Friends?" inquired I, absently, taking a candied violet from the sugared depth, while Sybil divested herself of her blue bonnet.

"Footlight friends," corrected

she. "They always come to see me, and listen to me sing. And I think so much of them. Oh, I forgot—I want to show you my pictures. They're the first good ones I ever had in my life. They were only taken yesterday. Look! Here are the proofs!"

And she gave for inspection some half a dozen, more or less, taken in the gown of blue.

"Do tell me how it feels to be back again at the Park?"

GLAD TO BE BACK.

"I can't tell you how—heavenly, heavenly!"

"You had a regular ovation here, on your reappearance, hadn't you?" There was standing room only—and flowers galore.

"They were lovely, to me, lovely. I don't know many of them personally, but I just felt as though I could open my arms—"

She suited action to the word—"and gather them all in. And I love musical comedy, too. That experience at the Columbia did me a lot of good. It was the first in that line for work. I'm glad they've put it on here."

"Who's the little girl in red?"

"Cissy Fitzgarter? Why, that's Muggins—Muggins Daives."

"You surprise me. To tell you the truth, I haven't looked at the program and I thought she was a new importation." The chic little Muggins, gowned in red, and graceful as a fairy in the light fantastic act, is, to reveal a stage secret, barely turned seventeen.

LIKES MUSICAL COMEDY.

"That's just why I like musical comedy," returned Sybil; "it gives the chorus girls a chance to show what's in them."

"Are you here for good?"

Miss Page was engaged in a struggle with her silken hose. She straightened out a wrinkle, and set the little chenille balls waving to and fro, then replied: "Oh, I don't know. I'm in the 'Circus Girl.' I suppose I'll sing here off and on."

"You changed your mind about going to New York?"

"Yes. You see, it got pretty late in the season for that. I stayed six weeks at the spring, and then sang at the Columbia. So I said to myself, 'What's the good of going there, and wa' around Broadway?'"

"So you're here?"

"Yes, I'm here," with a laugh, "and it seems mighty good."

Miss Page is at present living in San Francisco, but thinks of moving back to Oakland. She studies her parts while coming over on the boats. Her method of learning a new role is unusual.

HOW SHE STUDIES.

"I take my book, just like this," illustrated she, sitting up very composedly, "and read it over. I don't move while I'm singing it."

"But you run it over on the piano?"

"I never touch the piano when I'm learning a part. I read music very readily, and commit words and music at the same time. If it were hard work for me, I'd never be a singer, because I haven't the patience."

Miss Page, in her early years, it will be remembered, at one period, aimed to be a pianist, and gave promise of being a really brilliant performer, until it was discovered that she had a voice.

That was when she was about sixteen.

"It was always my ambition to be on the stage," Miss Page, reverting to her love of music, said: "I used to go to school out at Pacific Heights, in San Francisco; instead of studying I used to imagine myself a great prima donna, and write articles about myself. I didn't like to study, either, and was always playing 'Carmen' on the piano."

"You like it?"

SHE LOVES CARMEN.

"I love 'Carmen.' Ah, there's nothing like grand opera."

"And you still cling to your ambition to go to Europe to study."

"Indeed, yes. I expect to go some time. I had a peculiar experience this summer. I visited the insane asylum at Ukiah, and sang and played for the patients."

"How did you feel, performing before such an audience?"

"Nervous. When I was through, the perspiration just poured off me. I actually was afraid of making a mistake. I met a young girl from Berkeley among the patients. She'd been in the asylum for three years. Had gotten nervous prostration from overstudy on the piano. She was just beginning to recover, and when I came into the room was playing a sonata from Beethoven. The others were all about, listening to her."

"What else did you do this summer?"

"Rode horseback till I was black as an Indian," came the laughing reply. "This summer I was just myself."

But Miss Page likes to be something else besides, for, "I like to be working," declared she. "It makes me feel good to be doing something; to feel that I have a part in things."

Everything has an ending, and at sound of the stage call, Sybil, arrayed in her gown of white and yellow, token of the Social Purity Brigade, once more took her position near the wings.

COUNTRY CLUB HONORS GUEST

Many beautiful features enter into the plans for the wedding of Miss Edith Durlley Dent and Lionel A. Wolff, set for Wednesday, November 6. It is to be a home wedding, and following a good old southern custom, will include a wedding supper and a dance.

The home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. F. Soule, is to be the scene of the affair, and the spacious rooms will easily accommodate the large number of guests. Over a hundred are expected to attend the wedding.

Elaborate decorations in yellow and white chrysanthemums will make the house very attractive for the occasion. A tower of white and yellow blossoms is to be arranged in the deep window in the reception room, and there the wedding party will stand during the ceremony and the informal reception which is to follow. The house is arranged that the reception rooms, halls, living room and dining room can be thrown into one, and the same color scheme will prevail in all the rooms. The hardwood floors are ideal for dancing, and this feature of the evening will no doubt be very greatly enjoyed.

The bride's gown is unusually beautiful. It is an imported pattern gown of soft lace, made over tulle; the train is very long, and the gown follows the new, empire model in design. A long veil of tulle will be worn with the gown. The conventional flower bouquet will be of white roses.

Only one attendant will be with Miss Dent, a maid of honor, Miss Maud Campbell, of San Jose. She will wear a gown of white over yellow, carrying out the color scheme of the wedding. J. F. Soule will give the bride away.

A pretty musical feature will be introduced by Clement Rowlands, who is Mr. Wolff's brother-in-law. He is to sing during the ceremony, and will select something appropriate for the occasion. Paul T. Carroll will attend the bridegroom as best man. The marriage service of the Episcopal Church will be read by the Rev. Norman Guthrie.

The bride-to-be is new to Alameda, having come there from Grays Harbor, Washington, a little more than a year ago. She has become very popular in Alameda circles in that short time, as many pretty complimentary affairs for her bear testimony.

Mr. Wolff is an Englishman, a native of London. Of late years he has lived much in the Northwest, where he is widely known. He is now in business in San Francisco, acting as coast representative for the Spaulding Company, manufacturers of sporting goods.

A most delightful trip has been planned by the young people. They will go to Boston and later to New York and other eastern cities. They plan to remain away about three months, after which they will locate either in San Francisco or in the peninsula.

WAUNAKEE CARD CLUB.

Mrs. Harry Langley entertained the members of the Waunakee Card Club, a little group of card-playing friends well known in the university set, at her home in Berkeley last evening. A pleasant time was had, and the serving of dainty refreshments made up a most enjoyable evening. The players were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langley, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Connor, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. W. Nieman, Mrs. E. Langley and Roy C. Hand.

FOR MISS HENSHAW.

Miss Edith Houghton, who is to be a bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Henshaw and Mr. Chickering, entertained the members of the bridal party and a few other friends at a dinner at the Claremont Country Club last evening. Covers were laid for twenty-six, and the young hostess presided most charmingly at an extremely well appointed affair.

Miss Houghton, Miss Martha Chickering, Miss Katherine Brown and Miss Florence Henshaw are the four girls chosen to attend at the wedding at Rose Crest on November 10.

RETURN OF A SINGER.

Mrs. Margie Webber Maple, the singer, returned to Oakland last Saturday, after a two years' study abroad, and is now at the home of her mother, at 1197 Adeline street.

Mrs. Maple was a pupil of Gerster, coming from the great singer's hands nine years ago a most delightful and finely trained lyric soprano.

After a long period of singing and teaching in California she went back two years ago to join her old teacher in Berlin, in order to review some of the old work and to brush up on the new phases of vocal art. In the interval Mrs. Maple has developed from a lyric to a dramatic soprano, and much may be expected from her in church and recital work. Just at present she is resting, but she has decided to locate in Oakland and will shortly open her studies.

Mrs. Maple talks delightfully of her experiences. Following a season of study with Gerster, she went to other German cities, to The Hague, to Paris, and to London, looking over the musical field and coaching with various teachers. She has developed from a lyric to a dramatic soprano, and much may be expected from her in church and recital work. Just at present she is resting, but she has decided to locate in Oakland and will shortly open her studies.

Mrs. Maple is personally very popular in Oakland. She is charming and cultured, and with her superior training should do a great deal toward developing the musical life of the city.

CONFEDERATE DAUGHTERS.

The charity ball to be given by the Jefferson Davis Chapter, U. D. C., on October 31 at the Ebell clubhouse in Oakland will be one of the largest events of the winter. The ladies have all worked very hard to make it a success, and have prepared an excellent musical program consisting of numbers by the De Koven Quartette and songs by Mrs. George Winchester and Joe Roshonoff. The decorations will consist of pumpkins, witches, black cats and all the other decorations appropriate to Halloween.

Among the patronesses are Mrs. Sydney M. Van Wyck, Mrs. Charles F. Pond, Mrs. Andrew M. Davis, Mrs. Julian Le Conte, Miss Dinkertfield, Mrs. W. W. Morrow, Mrs. E. S. Bolden, Mrs. Frank L. Adams, Mrs. Leland Stanford Hornick, Mrs. Randolph Miller, Mrs. L. McQuesten, Mrs. L. D. E. Bradley, Mrs. W. H. Smyth, Miss Marguerite Bolden, Mrs. J. J. Valentine, Mrs. F. A. Berlin, Mrs. Maudson Manson, Mrs. Richard E. Queen, Mrs. Clement H. Miller, Mrs. S. N. Duncan, Mrs. John W. Denver, Mrs. S. M. Van Wyck Jr., Mrs. James L. Crittenden, Mrs. W. F. Bargett, Miss Nora A. Queen, Mrs. W. O. Minor, Mrs. Fred Magee, Mrs. Dana Harmon, Mrs. Beatrice Pertridge Williams, Mrs. W. H. Cameron.

Fifty hundred invitations were issued last week, and the demand for more has been so great that five hundred more are being prepared as rapidly as possible.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Tyson of 130 Sherman street was hostess on Friday evening at a most delightful party, arranged in celebration of the eighteenth birthday of her daughter, Miss Helen Willis.

The cosy home was tastefully decorated with festoons of red and green, and masses of red geraniums adorned the planned by the members of St. Anthony's Young Men's Auxiliary for Thursday evening, the 31st, in the hall of the parish, Sixteenth street and Sixteenth avenue, East Oakland.

Cards have been sent to the friends of the young men of the auxiliary, and a jolly evening is anticipated.

The auxiliary is composed of a number of young men who are interested in the social welfare of the parish, and they are planning many events for the coming winter. For most of these affairs a small admission fee is charged to defray expenses.

The first of the series of these entertainments will be a whist party on the evening of November 7. A number of handsome prizes will be awarded to the holders of high scores.

Among the young men of the auxiliary are Joseph Harrington, Frank Howard, Thomas Furlong, Thomas Healy, H. Knapp and J. Connolly.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Simmons were pleasantly surprised on Friday evening by a party of friends who came to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons. The guests brought materials for a delightful supper, which they prepared, taking possession of the house and making guests of the erstwhile host and hostess.

Most of the guests were office associates of Mr. Simmons, who is in the employ of D. F. Minney, the real estate dealer. The impromptu supper and the other pleasant features of the evening were much enjoyed, and at the table W. M. Sherwood, on behalf of all the guests presented to Mr. and Mrs. Simmons a cut glass water service.

Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Minney and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hawley and Miss Birdie Sidmore.

MARRIED IN MERCED.

James H. Loney of Oakland and Mrs. Gertrude Kidd of Merced were married last week at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. D. Radcliffe. Rev. James Miles Webb performed the ceremony.

ENTRE NOUS CLUB.

The Entre Nous Club held a most delightful meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. August Haneberg on Oakland avenue. The sessions are usually held in the afternoon, but on this occasion the gentlemen were invited and the card game was set for the evening.

Of the six prizes offered the first was won by Mr. August Haneberg, the second by Dr. William Jackson and the consolation prize by Dr. Frank Jackson. The ladies who won were Mrs. James E. Melvin, first, and Mrs. M. Gonzales, second. Mrs. William Jackson received the consolation trophy.

The house was elaborately decorated for the evening in pink and green. It is a new house and very roomy, and carried the decorating scheme delightfully. A supper and an informal dance completed the pleasure of the evening.

Those who participated in the affair were Mr. and Mrs. August Haneberg, Mr. and Mrs. John Roland, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Westphal, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Melvin, Dr. and Mrs. William Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gonzales, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ross and Dr. Frank Jackson.

LORELEY COTILLION.

The second dance of this winter's series given by the Loreley Cotillion will be held on Friday evening, November 1, at the Home Club. The first dance, given early in October, was very successful and the outlook for the remaining dances of the season is very encouraging. Nearly two hundred of the younger set attended the first dance, and it is probable that the number will be larger on Friday evening.

A special car will meet the Key Route train at Twenty-second street, by way of accommodating San Francisco guests.

Among the patronesses of the cotillion are Mrs. W. A. Schrock, Mrs. George Pardee and Mrs. M. J. Layman.

MOTHERS' CLUB.

The Mothers' Club of St. Paul's Church was delightfully entertained on Thursday at the home of Mrs. A. White, 1415 Linden street. The ladies spent the afternoon in card-playing and Mrs. Carrie Armstrong, Mrs. Fearn and Miss Hawley re-dered several appropriate recitations, after which refreshments were served.

The guest list included Miss Hawley, Mrs. Fearn, Mrs. Mette, Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Netherwood, Mrs. Blum, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. Seven, Mrs. Shell, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Bankhead, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. White.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

The Misses Mary and Alice Burdick have planned a delightful Halloween party for Wednesday evening. Pumpkins and witches and owls and black cats are to have place in the decorating scheme, which is to embrace all possible Halloween features. The evening hours will be spent in dancing, and a supper will be served at 12. A jolly evening seems assured for the guests invited, among whom are Miss Olive Hyde, Miss Florence Putzker, Miss Albin Lieder, Miss Dorothy Galsworthy, Miss Ora Garrigue, Miss Helen von Slyke, Miss Laura von Slyke, Miss Isabel Laughlin, Miss Elsie Mitchell, Miss Elaine McShane, Miss Melda Fisher, Miss Alice Burdick, Miss Mary Burdick, Bert Rigby, Fred Garrigue, Alfred Whittle, Bert Christianer, Fred Sperry, Alfred Humphrey, Arthur Willis, Frank Woodward, Bob Sheidan, John Sheridan, Oscar Putzker, Allan Hyde and Earl Russell.

FROM SANTA ROSA.

Miss Ethel Engelhardt, who has spent some time visiting in Santa Rosa, has returned and is again at her home in Oakland.

JANUARY WEDDING.

A January wedding of much interest will be that of Miss Alice Higgins and Harry Edde, set for an early date after the first of the year.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Higgins, formerly of Sacramento, but now residing in Oakland. She is a girl of charming manner and attractive appearance. Her fiance, Mr. Edde, is a well-known advertising man, doing business in Oakland and in San Francisco. His family lives in Los Angeles, but he has made his home in Oakland for several years. He is very much liked in business and social circles.

Some Interesting Figures About the Prices Paid Noted People on the Orpheum Circuit.

On the western rim of this continent with the Rockies separating the people of the coast from the great towns of the East, theater-goers know that there are some sensations which have their origin in New York, or Boston, or Chicago, which are a bit late in arriving in these parts. The big dramatic performances are not always hurried to the Pacific Coast after they score successes in the East. Sometimes they linger for as much as several years, so that there is a suspicion of staidness about them when they finally reach the Golden Gate.

In one big field, however, and that a field which is perhaps most in the limelight at this time, theater-goers here enjoy the distinction of receiving the very latest form of entertainment which is set before theater patrons of the East—that field being vaudeville. Everybody knows the facilities the Orpheum people enjoy for procuring and presenting the big vaudeville acts from all over the world. Everybody knows that six weeks after a vaudeville sensation is experienced in New York, Oakland and San Francisco, the same act is being performed in the same sort of a sensation.

Because this is so, and also because vaudeville has risen in the East to the dignity of a pre-eminent section of the theatrical world, with dramatic leaders and newspaper men, and literary chaps in general turning loose great quantities of printed matter descriptive of the many sides of the vaudeville world, it is appropos to have some of the startling developments which are taking place at this time in this peculiarly fascinating field—the field of vaudeville.

PRICES AT ORPHEUM.

Over at the Orpheum the crowd saunters in nightly, paying 25c or 30c or 75c or $1 for a seat. It is not until the procession of vaudeville acts passes, goes out content, but most indifferent as to how the business end of the vaudeville game is operated; ignorant of the great cost of the acts which may have been just enjoyed, and possibly inclined to be skeptical when told that the performance which cost 50 cents to see, cost the management from two to three times as much as is involved in the producing of a high class drama anywhere in America.

Now that Oakland has the opportunity to accumulate wisdom about real vaudeville, and to join the great throng of metropolitan critics across the Rockies, it is well worth while to give heed to some of the views of experienced critics who write about the different sides of vaudeville from the standpoint of connoisseurs.

In this connection one of the big magazines has just put forth a very interesting story called "The Business Side of Vaudeville," wherein the curtain is lifted and glimpses are given into the world where stars are engaged, contracts are made, salaries paid and the business end of the great vaudeville game is settled.

In this magazine article one is told that thousand dollar salaries are not a novelty, but instead are common, and that the average vaudeville bill is quite likely to have at least one star who represents this amount of money.

The magazine writer discusses the glittering bait which lures all sorts of crack entertainers to the vaudeville world in the following paragraphs:

WELL PAID SPECIALISTS.

"Vaudeville performers are a class of highly paid specialists. They receive from one dollar to ten dollars a minute for the time they are on the stage. This explains why so many prominent, highly successful stars are persuaded to take a fling in vaudeville. We no longer gasp at the announcement that a famous player is to become a variety actor—for, after all, vaudeville is merely a modern name for the variety performance.

"With casual unconcern a vaudeville manager will remark that he can get any star in the theatrical firmament to do a 'turn,' that is, any one he happens to want. It is simply a question of how much he is willing to pay. There are a few, as many as can be counted on one hand, who could not be tempted. The vaudeville manager would remark in his airy, cheerful way that he doesn't want those. When one considers the salaries that are paid, this willingness of the stars is not so remarkable.

"If May Irwin, who is about to return to vaudeville after many years absence, chooses to work as many weeks in the year as Mr. Corey is supposed to work she will receive a salary more than double that of the president of the Steel trust, if she elect to work only twenty weeks in the year, her salary will equal that of the President of the United States. Her salary for two weeks equals that paid a Congressman a whole year. In other words, Miss Irwin will receive $2500 a week for appearing on that stage, for twenty minutes twice a day.

"When Lillian Russell appeared in vaudeville she was paid $3150 a week, which is, I believe, the largest salary ever given to a performer. Elaine Jacobs got $3000 and Mrs. Langtry $2500. Vesta Victoria, who first came to this country for $40 a year, and Vesta Tilly, another English performer, both command $2500.

"Indeed, if all the people who work for their living vaudeville performers are the best paid. Of three-fourths, yea, seven-eighths of the traveling theatrical companies, the whole salary lists does not amount to $2500 a week, paid in vaudeville, that much is paid to one performer who gives an eighth of the performance.

"It is true that a $2500 a week performer does not appear often in any one theater, but an act that costs $1000 a week has become the rule rather than the exception in every bill, while a great majority of the acts cost from $250 to $500, and in the best vaudeville houses no act costs less than $75 a week.

This expert who contributes to the New York magazine, the foregoing article on the business side of vaudeville, gives the crown of glory to the Orpheum Circuit Company among all vaudeville corporations of the world for the scientific skill and thoroughness with which its business is handled.

Oakland folks who are now on the Orpheum circuit and who enjoy a peek weekly at the style of entertainment which the Orpheum theaters pervade, will naturally be interested in reading the following verdict which the magazine expert renders when describing the Orpheum company's standing in the great world of vaudeville.

"Perhaps the Orpheum circuit, which owns ten theaters west and south of Chicago, and is closely affiliated with twenty-five more, offers the best example of the modern business organization of vaudeville.

ORPHEUM COMPANY.

"The Orpheum company is a close corporation, with a capital stock of $75,000 and something like five million dollars of assets. It has built nearly all of its theaters, which cost from $250,000 to $350,000 each. Its prices range from 75 cents for box seats to 10 cents in the gallery. Orchestra seats sell for 50 cents at night and 25 cents for the matinee. The 10 cents admission to the gallery is designed chiefly to attract children, because it has been found that they go home and tell their parents about the excellent show, thereby increasing the attendance at subsequent performances.

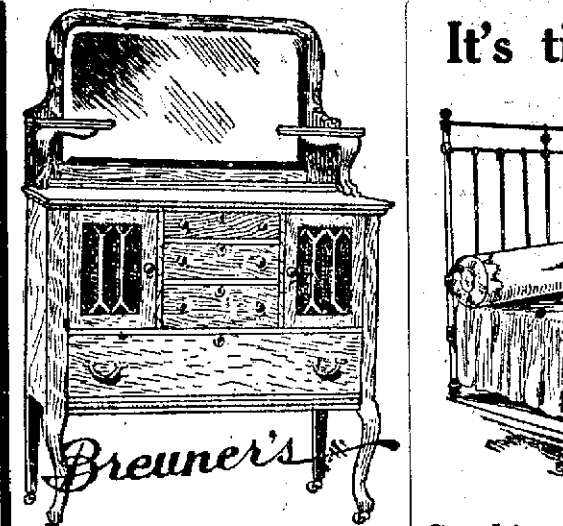

"The booking is done from the Chicago office and the closest tab is kept on all the acts, so that it is known exactly which ones please most. Contracts for scenery, decoration, carpets, all the supplies and the repairs are made in the Chicago office for the ten theaters, and the cost is thus much reduced. The Orpheum circuit pays the railroad fares of performers, and it has a high priced railroad expert to look after the transportation.

"I am a business man and my business is to amuse people," explained Martin Beck, the general manager of the Orpheum Company, and that puts it in a nutshell. With him it is business first and last, and it is a part of that business to have a thorough knowledge of the show game. His eyes are cast far ahead; he doesn't think about what the business will be next week or next month, but what it will be two years from now. He knows that his theaters cannot succeed unless they play to full houses, because of the small price of admission, therefore he must make the theaters themselves as attractive as possible, providing generously for the women and children, and also must give them the best show he can arrange.

PRESIDENT MEYERFELD.

President N. Meyerfeld, Jr. of San Francisco, president of the Orpheum Circuit Company, took a glance at the magazine article called "The Business Side of Vaudeville," which is illustrated with pictures of some of the big vaudeville stars of the world, whose salaries range from $1000 to $2000 to $3000 a week, and remarked as he laid the magazine down: "That article is fairly correct, except where it deals with the figures involved in the receipts and earnings of some vaudeville theaters in the East. It may be worth knowing," he continued, "that practically all of these stars who are featured pictorially in this magazine have been brought west by the Orpheum Circuit Company. Houdini, the hand-cuff king, whose picture I note, was recently at the San Francisco Orpheum, and would have been at the Oakland Orpheum had that theater been completed at the time of his engagement.

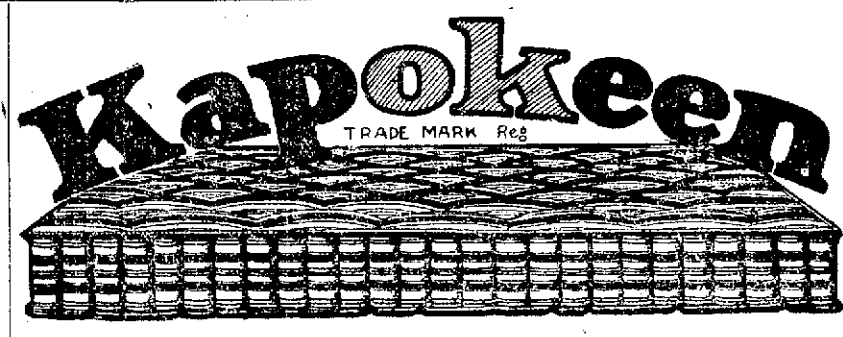

"Papina, the mirror dancer, has been seen many times in the Orpheum theaters upon the Pacific Coast and in the East. Nat M. Willis, whose features appear in the magazine article, has been over our circuit. Cressy and Dayne we have had both on the Orpheum circuit and in the Orpheum road show. The Stunning Grenadiers we have had, and Jesse J. Hawk's 'Phonograph' and the big musical act we have booked. The writer of the magazine article in choosing stars for pictorial representation, in practically every case, named artists who are familiar to Orpheum patrons, and had the list been extended to include hundreds of other stars, practically all of them would have been found to be names that are familiar to Orpheum theater-goers in the East, in the West, in the North and in the South. What has been done in the past in the way of importing vaudeville stars will, of course, be continued. There are many big acts coming to Oakland during the next week. Every act that comes to San Francisco will cross the bay and as both cities demand the best and are perfectly willing to give the best their constant patronage, there is no doubt whatever that the golden stream of novelties will continue to come this way."

CROWDS CHEER BANKER MORGAN
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A natural result of the banking situation this week has been the increase of visitors to the Wall Street district. A large number of the visitors are not, as is supposed, but there are many in the crowd from out of town. The main points of interest are the stock exchange and the offices of J. P. Morgan & Company. The demand for tickets to the exchange is enormous.

CHEERED BY CROWD.
The pools which J. P. Morgan placed at the disposal of the stock exchange has brought him sharply in the light and a great crowd gathered there Friday about the time Morgan was expected to leave the bank for his home. When he appeared several older men in the crowd removed their hats, while a young woman called for cheers for the financier, to which a number of persons responded.

MANY CONFERENCES.
In the last week Morgan has attended many night conferences dealing with the banking situation. In doing so he was obliged on several occasions to ride about in his cab late at night, and in some instances in the early morning. He went home early last evening, and it was announced that he was to have a good rest.

A change in the manner and conversation of the banking crowd was noticeably apparent Friday. A more confident note ran through the conversation, and many little scenes and incidents in the street which would have been passed by with a serious face earlier in the week, were the cause of mirth and gaiety.

IN FIVE LANGUAGES.
In order to reach nearly all the cosmopolitan population of greater New York the brief statements by J. P. Morgan, John R. Rockefeller and A.

VATICAN'S RICH ARCHIVES OPEN TO THE WIDE WORLD
ROME, Oct. 26.—The Vatican archives have been thrown open for students of ecclesiastical history. This is the first time that the two months' vacation of the Curia has ended. Many German and foreign scholars have been waiting here for some time to have an opportunity to look over some important ecclesiastical documents preserved in the Vatican archives. They brought their influence to bear on the Vatican authorities to open the archives sooner than usual. As a result of nearly all the employees of the department were sent back from their vacations by the order of the Pope. The Vatican archives contain, perhaps, the most important collection in the world. Every original decree of the Popes for at least the last ten centuries has been preserved there. Some of the documents are of great historic importance and some of such extraordinary interest that they are never shown to ordinary visitors.

STARTLING LETTERS.
There are documents which would shake many thrones of Europe by showing that the present reigning families are not entitled to the ruling power they hold. One such is a letter supposed to have been written to Pope Pius VIII by the Napoleon pretender to the throne of France, who claimed to be the son of the Emperor Napoleon I. Another document has escaped from the custody of his majesty, the Pope.

CRAWFORD AT WORK.
F. Crawford, the American novelist who has long resided in Italy and who is well and favorably known at the Vatican, is now at work on a history of the city of Rome, but all the efforts he has made within the past few days in examining certain documents in the Vatican archives have been useless. Members of European royal families.

H. Harriman on the banking situation
The World today prints them in five languages, English, German, Hebrew, French and Italian. The statements declare the situation is sound, and urge the people to calm their fears.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 26.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday handed down a decision that the Colorado statute prohibiting any foreign corporation from prosecuting or defending suit in that State unless it has paid an annual license of two cents for each $1000 of capital stock is unconstitutional. It is literally interpreted as to any corporation engaged in interstate commerce.
The court adds that the true construction of the statute is that it was intended to govern interstate commerce only. The decision was rendered in a suit brought by the United States Rubber Company, a New Jersey corporation, against a Colorado shoe firm. The court holds that the New Jersey corporation is engaged in interstate commerce, which cannot be hampered by any State.

CLIPPINGS FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

LANGDON AND MCGOWAN

In strong contrast to Langdon's violent disregard of the law and the duties of his office, a few sentences from a campaign speech of Frank McGowan, his opponent for the district attorneyship, may be considered with advantage:

"I am opposed to the idea of any district attorney handing over his office to a rich man, or to a clique of rich men, for a hundred thousand dollars or any other sum. I am likewise opposed to the immunity bath, for I think its purpose and its influence are bad. I think it to be a bad and dangerous precedent. I am also opposed to private jails—to palatial places for detention, and if I am elected district attorney there will be nothing of this kind in vogue. I pledge you my word to that. I want to know what you think of the proposition of a district attorney, chosen by the people, permitting a millionaire to dump a hundred thousand dollars into his office and turning over to that millionaire the machinery of the law and the power of his office? What do you think of a district attorney who gets his office from the common people, and who takes his oath of office as the law requires, files his bond, and then steps aside while a rich man tumbles a hundred thousand dollars into his lap for the purpose of using the public process to achieve a private vengeance or aim? "I say to you that if elected district attorney, I will permit no man or set of men, be they rich or poor, to finance that department, and make a farce of our form of government by selling to a clique of designing schemers one of the municipality's great departments." Compare this utterance of McGowan, voicing his sense of sole responsibility to the people, with Langdon's plea for private vengeance.—News Letter.

PRESIDENT CASEY GOOD TO MILLIONAIRES

President Michael Casey of the Board of Public Works is desirous of cleaning up the streets before the winter rains begin. With that end in view, the street department employees have received instructions to enforce the provisions of the building ordinance which gives property owners the use of one-third of the street and one-half of the sidewalk for building purposes while work is in progress. This restriction has been found necessary to prevent blockades on the public thoroughfares, and to enable pedestrians to move about with as little inconvenience as the conditions will permit. The enforcement of this order has given rise to much friction. Unrestricted encroachment on the public streets, permitted by the slipshod methods of the Schmitz administration, has given builders the impression that their interests are paramount to those of the public. Chief among the transgressors are two distinguished gentlemen, because of their generous contributions to the graft prosecution fund, expect to enjoy special privileges, just as the less distinguished contractors enjoyed them under the Schmitz administration by paying the complaining officers a small bribe or a "tip," as the payment was usually termed, to soften to the import of the harsher word. If we are to have this kind of an administration, the moral plane of the municipal government has not been elevated, but merely contracted. Casey may be independent enough to make these multi-millionaires conform to the law. If he is not, Mayor Taylor may find another who will not be awed by either their power or their wealth.—News Letter.

EXHIBIT 1908 AUTO MODELS

Nearly Every Manufacturer in United States Represented at Annual Show.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The exhibit of 1908 models under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America, from the evidence of attendance displayed at the first three days, promises to be one of the most successful in automobile history.
The decoration of the palace is simple, not to distract the attention of the spectators from the exhibits, but in good, artistic taste.
The Automobile Club show does not provide much opportunity for wasted steps, and when a visitor enters the idea of the palace space in his mind and follows the guide signs, he is not apt to miss anything of his own volition. The exhibits are jammed together, but reference to the uniform signs at the rear of each space does away with possible confusion from that source.

MANY EVENTS.
Following are the events of particular interest, which have taken place, and those for the rest of the week:
Thursday, October 24, 4 to 6 p. m.—Private view of exhibition.
Friday, October 25—Merchants' night.
Saturday, October 26—City officials' night, smoker, clubhouse of Automobile Club of America, 1:30 p. m.
Sunday, October 27—Open house at home of Automobile Club.
Monday, October 28—Engineers' night, meeting committee of management, American motor cars.
Tuesday, October 29—Second annual show luncheon of the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association at 1 p. m. Society night; admission $1.
Wednesday, October 30—Meeting of committee of automobile manufacturers on track racing. Fair weather club, dinner, Reisenweber's, 7:40 p. m. Meeting directors, National and Accessory Manufacturers' Association 10 p. m. Hotel Belmont. Conference Automobile Trade Association with American Automobile Association 6 p. m.

Newbro's Herpicide

Every woman should have beautiful and abundant hair, for nature lavishly rewards those who labor intelligently to preserve and beautify it. Is your hair oily or sticky? Is it dry, dull or lusterless? Have you dandruff? If so, you should use Newbro's Herpicide at once. It kills the germ or microbe that causes dandruff and falling hair, after which, the hair will grow as nature intended. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly and gives the assurance of a cure from the very first application. It contains no oil or grease, and is unsurpassed for its cleanliness. It makes the hair light and fluffy and gives it a silken gloss.

Two Sizes—50c and $1.00.—At Drug Stores—Send 10c. in stamps to The Herpicide Company, Department N., Detroit, Michigan, for a sample.

Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906. Serial No. 915. Some drug clerks are paid a big percentage on their sales for substitutes for standard articles. Insist on Herpicide. For sale at all drug stores. Applications at prominent barber shops.

Automobile Association convention. Every manufacturer is represented. Full list of exhibitors are as follows: Acme, American, American Motors, Brush, Cameron, Chadwick, Mitchell, Morr, Napier, Pennsylvania, Promet, Smith, Stoddard-Dayton, York (Pullman), Cleveland, Continental, Crawford, Dragon, Ellsworth, Frontenac, Garth, Gilde, Grout, Jackson, Kissel, Kier, Lambert, Marion, Anderson Electric, Atlas, Austin, Calmar, Collins, Moon, National, Overland, Rainier, Reo, Wayne-Welch, Colt Compound, Deluxe, Dorris, Frayer-Miller-Ford, Garford Gearless, Hatfield-Imperial, Klink, Lane, Marmion, Maxwell-Briscoe.

One of the interesting exhibits is that of the new Garford cars. Two classes are shown, one of thirty horsepower and the other forty. The first named is intended to carry five passengers and the other seven. The Rambler is missing at this show because of the failure of the makers to get sufficient space for an exhibit.

FRENCH BALLOONISTS GAME TO END OF RACE
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Edward Mix, who was aide to Alfred LeBlanc, the pilot of the French balloon "Mile de France," by the recent international balloon race from St. Louis, says that the report given from Asbury Park, N. J., on the day the French balloon landed, that he was practically incapacitated during the entire race by an ulcerated tooth is incorrect.
It was LeBlanc who suffered from an ulcerated tooth. The report that he proposed giving up the contest is also incorrect. Mix says that the notwithstanding the fact that the normans were handicapped by LeBlanc's misfortune, they at no time considered giving up.

WHO WILL BE THE WINNERS IN THE TRIBUNE PRIZE CONTEST?

GET VOTES EVERY DAY; CONTEST NOW NEARING END

GET EVERY VOTE THAT YOU CAN
Votes Will Be Needed on Final Night of Contest.

$100 CASH PRIZE.
AN EXTRA PRIZE OF $100 IN GOLD WILL BE AWARDED TO THE CANDIDATE WHO, WITH THE AID OF FRIENDS, BRINGS IN THE LARGEST AMOUNT OF MONEY ON PAID-IN-ADVANCE SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18, TO SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2.
ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS PAID IN ADVANCE DURING THIS PERIOD, WHETHER BY CANDIDATES OR THEIR FRIENDS, WILL BE CREDITED IN FAVOR OF A CANDIDATE AS REQUESTED.
THE VOTES ISSUED ON THESE SUBSCRIPTIONS CAN BE VOTED AT ANY TIME, OR HELD AND VOTED ON THE LAST NIGHT OF THE CONTEST IF DESIRED.
AT NO TIME DURING THE CONTEST WILL ANY MORE DOUBLE VOTES BE ISSUED OR WILL ANY SPECIAL VOTE OFFER BE MADE.
THIS IS AN EXCELLENT CHANCE TO GET $100 IN EASY MONEY.

Each day brings forth greater effort on the part of the contestants. These and the friends are striving every minute to secure as many votes as possible before the close of the contest.
Every friend of every contestant in the whole of Alameda county are interesting themselves more intensely day and night in securing large numbers of votes and subscriptions daily.
That alone shows that they do not intend to let their favorite lose and will put forth every effort to see them lead or win, and not be beaten in the end.

Very nearly every candidate made good gains during the week just closed, and promise to carry out the good work.
During the next week make a decided effort to secure every vote and every subscription to THE TRIBUNE you possibly can, as you will have a few weeks more left to determine the winners in the contest.
You have been entered in the contest, and a winner by some friend, generous of heart, and not good, as do not disavow that friend by taking an active part in the campaign yourself.

$100 ON SATURDAY.
Saturday night will decide who is the winner of the special prize of $100 in gold. Candidates have all of this week in which to secure subscriptions to count on this special $100 offer. Do not delay until the last of the week, but get busy today and secure the necessary subscriptions to enable you to win the $100. Some one will get it, why not you?

COUPONS IN PACKAGES.
The vote coupons must be tied in packages or placed in envelopes. It is impossible to count thousands of coupons dropped loosely in the box.

MANNER OF VOTING.
A coupon good for one vote will be published in each issue of THE TRIBUNE until the end of the contest. This coupon, if clipped and sent to the Contest Manager of THE TRIBUNE, will count as one vote for the contestant named therein. There is another and better way of securing votes and that is on subscriptions. Votes will be given on all paid-in-advance subscriptions as follows:

Three months, $1.95..... 100 extra votes
Six months, $3.90..... 300 extra votes
One year, $7.80..... 1000 extra votes
Two years, $15.60..... 2000 extra votes
Three years, $23.40..... 5000 extra votes
Three hundred votes are also issued on a classified advertisement coupon book which contains coupons worth $2.50, but sells for only $2.

CLASSIFIED AD COUPONS.
An innovation in voting contests is the issuing of votes on classified advertisements. A coupon book containing coupons to the value of $2.50 is sold for $2. This is a saving of 50 cents on each dollar, and will prove a great investment for those who advertise. Classified advertisements are such as "Help Wanted," "For Sale," "Rooms to Rent," etc. These classified advertisement coupons can be used at the time the books are bought or at a later date as may be desired.

KAHNS'

THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE

KAHNS'

Greatest of Dress Goods Values

GO-CARTS

The best values in Oakland—so much the best that the difference between our prices and those asked elsewhere will amaze you.

Our Go-Carts have CHINA HANDLES—all others sold in the city have the old-fashioned wood handles that soon get GREASY and FILTHY.

Don't house the youngsters—give them plenty of fresh air. It's better and cheaper than medicine.

$3.75 to $25

Three Great Specials In

Black Taffetas

THESE bargains tower head and shoulders above the best to be found elsewhere. The qualities, too, may be relied upon. "Just anything" is not admitted into the Kahn Silk Department. An expert who knows must pronounce the silks worthy of your buying before we offer them to you. In no other way could we have built up such a great business. Our best endeavors and your whole confidence are the foundations upon which our silk success rests.

BLACK SILK TAFFETA

(36 inches wide)

BLACK SILK TAFFETA

(27 inches wide)
Kahns' warranted to wear quality. Regular price $1.25. On sale Monday at

88c

The handsomest Fancy Silks are at KAHNS'. Whatever Fashion has decreed to be correct for Fall and Winter—for street or evening wear—for waists, dresses or other purposes—you will find here in magnificent variety. Our stock is without an equal—our prices are matchlessly low.

CARACUL AND BEARSKIN COATINGS—all colors—all qualities—from $3.00 a yard upward. On sale in Silk Department.

Another Very Important Sale

WE didn't think it possible to excel the bargains we gave you in our recent Distribution Sale of Manufacturers' Surplus Stocks. But extraordinary as they were, these are more so.

Success brings rare chances. A prominent eastern manufacturer had taken note of the big Dress Goods selling going on here—was overstocked—became weary of pondering the problem of selling at a profit—decided to unload at a sacrifice—and sold us some of his choicest treasures at less than cost of production.

We are sorry for him, but glad of the chance that permits us to offer you these handsome and fashionable fabrics at a fraction of their worth.

THE PRICES FOLLOW—but you will never fully realize the importance of this sale until you see the goods.

White China

For Decorating

Kahns' is Headquarters for all the best makes of Limoges China—including Haviland & Co.

Amateur and professional decorators will find here the largest variety—the prettiest and most graceful shapes—and the most reasonable prices in the city.

Pretty Rugs

From Auction Away Under Price

NEEDN'T bother your mind about quality. The rugs are all right. None made in this country have a juster claim on your preference. They'll wear like the kind made by the Nomadic tribes of far away Asia. The patterns are superb—the color combinations very beautiful. Don't wait for a better opportunity—there isn't the faintest likelihood that equally great values will be offered again in years.

Kahns' Kumfort Klogs

The Ideal Shoes for Little People.

When the children grow up—it's their lookout if they buy pinch-toe shoes. Until then, it's up to you to see that their tender little feet are allowed to keep the shape that a kind Providence intended. Kahns' Kumfort Klogs are the natural form shoes for little folks. And they're as neat looking as if there wasn't all the room that their small toes needed.

Tennis Flannels

In a wonderful variety of pretty stripes and checks—three thousand yards in the lot—a splendid 10c quality—our special price, per yard

7 1/2c

The Swellest $7.50 Hats

Come and see how very exact the statement is. Boasting is a gun whose kick hurts worse than its shot, and we are very careful to keep well inside the truth in all our statements. Such stylish ideas—such exquisite taste—such beauty—such value—never before went with Hats at $7.50.

Oakland Will See this Season are in Kahns' Millinery Department. Does that heading sound boastful?

The Smart New Coats

AN unequalled variety. The range of styles includes everything—from the most practical kind of an every-day Coat to the most elaborate affair for the other end of the day. We have Coats for business, for shopping, for marketing—Coats for theaters, balls and other evening functions—long Coats—short Coats—Coats in all the regular sizes—Coats to fit "irregular figures." And from one end to the other of the collection you will find our prices surprisingly low.

TWO SUIT SPECIALS

WOMEN now-a-days are the buyers—not only of their own apparel, but of most of the things needed for the entire family. They know values, and are seldom misled. Women tell us every day that our stock of suits is not equaled elsewhere. We show the greatest variety—the most attractive models—and our prices are invariably lower than suits of equal quality and elegance can be bought for in any other store.

These Are Examples of Our Unapproachable Values

PRINCE CHAP SUITS

Sold elsewhere at $22.50

BIG SHIP OUT OF PROVISIONS
Nome Steamship Pennsylvania Puts Into Port in a Disabled Condition.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Oct. 26.—With machinery partially out of commission, making the backing of a big ship practically an impossibility, and with empty larder and 130 passengers aboard, the Nome steamship, Pennsylvania, reached port early this morning and came to anchor off Port Flaxier. Communication with shore was at once established and it shown out that the big ship would await raising of a heavy fog which has prevailed intermittently for several days.

Later, the true state of affairs aboard was proved when the tug boat Wyadka of the Puget Sound Company's fleet was pressed into service to deliver the Pennsylvania and her passengers to a destination further up the sound. Word sent ashore from the vessel while negotiations were being made for a tugboat was to the effect that provisions had been almost completely exhausted through the fact that the voyage consumed much more time than had been expected, owing to fogs and head winds.

Late in the afternoon the Wyadka started with her tow but was not expected to reach her destination until well after midnight, the fog making progress necessarily slow.

ALVARADO WOMEN TO HOLD ANNUAL BAZAAR
ALVARADO, Oct. 26.—The Ladies' Aid Society met Thursday with Mrs. E. Beebe. A goodly number were present and much work accomplished. The annual bazaar will be held November 9.

WILL CONTEST; BITTER FIGHT
Louis O'Farrell Charges Churchmen With Influencing His Aunt to Cut Him From Estate.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
SANTA ROSA, Oct. 26.—The trial of the Wensinger will contest which promises to be one of the hardest fought contests in the Superior Court of this county in years, will come early in December, and it will last many days. Louis J. O'Farrell is the contestant. He alleges that Archbishop Riordan and Father Mulligan unduly influenced his aunt, Mrs. Teresa Wensinger, to make a will cutting him off. A vigorous denial has been given the allegations. Mrs. Wensinger was a very wealthy woman and gave much of her wealth to charities of the Roman Catholic Church.

RATES FROM NEVADA TO LOS ANGELES REDUCED
(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—A big reduction in passenger rates from Southern California to Nevada points will be effective December 1, over the Tonopah and Tidewater road, and its Nevada connections, the Rock lines. The present one-way rate from Los Angeles to Goldfield will be cut from $25.00 to $20.00, and the round-trip rate from $42.00 to $34.00. The one-way rate to Tonopah is cut from $27.00 to $22.50, and the round-trip from $46 to $36.00. The one-way fare to Rhyolite and Beatty of $21.00 is cut to $16.50 and $16.25, and the round-trip rate to $26.50 and $26.

It was feared would have a fatal termination.

Having plenty of sewing on hand, the ladies of the Aid Society will meet every Wednesday until the holidays. The next meeting will be held at the house of Mrs. Walter Robie on Wednesday, October 30th.

The ladies' bazaar held at the pavilion netted the enthusiastic workers the sum of $200.

EXONERATES PARENT OF COMPLICITY IN SHOOTING YOUNG GIRL.
(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
LOS ANGELES, October 26.—Standing before the Judge who was about to send him to the penitentiary for the murder of little Marie San Marco, Nazareno Loturco, the young Italian who was convicted this week, branded as a liar his own story that he had fired the fatal shot upon command of his father, Francesco Loturco, and took upon himself this morning the entire blame for the killing of the child.

Judge Smith sentenced the lad to fifteen years in San Quentin.

Loturco killed the San Marco child with a bullet which he fired at Joe Despard, his rival for the hand of seventeen-year-old Josephine San Marco, sister of the victim. Loturco said today that Josephine had whispered to him in jail to say that his father commanded him to shoot and that she would save him from punishment.

REFUSES STREET GRADE, LOSES FINE RESIDENCE
(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 26.—A beautiful $25,000 residence on upper Castillo street, occupying one-quarter of a block, has passed into the hands of a street contractor for $500 because an obdurate woman of English birth would not respect the ordinances of this city, and under a recent ruling of the Supreme Court, the contractor has been given possession of this magnificent property in consideration of grading about 200 feet of street contiguous to the property, the cost of which was less than $500.

BURNED TO DEATH.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Mrs. James P. Burns, wife of the prominent shoe merchant, who was badly burned last evening by an explosion of gasoline in her home at St. James Park, died today from her injuries. Miss Blake, her maid, who was also seriously burned, will recover.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF INSURANCE ADVOCATED
Local representatives of casualty and surety companies are in receipt of copies of the published proceedings of the recent fourth annual meeting of the Board of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, held in New York. The proceedings show that the speakers dwelt upon the necessity for exclusive, or at least, an over-ruling federal regulation of insurance. Conflicting State laws, it was said, not only create confusion of a peculiarly vexatious kind, but also add greatly to the cost of doing business.

The attitude of President Roosevelt is known, it was said, to be favorable to uniform regulation and he has tentatively endorsed a bill prepared by the board.

"The control of insurance companies by the Federal government is a branch of a much larger subject," said President Sylvester C. Dunham in his address. "It is included in the standardize government should assume toward all corporations having agencies, branches or operations in several States. It is no less the duty of the government to prevent discrimination by insurance companies than by railroads, and by dealers in oil and beef. That insurance companies discriminate between the inhabitants of different States is too well known to require a bill of particulars, and that they are compelled to do so by the laws of such States is equally well known to all who have given the subject more than superficial attention. And that legislation will be enacted by all or by most of the States to standardize taxation, values, departmental expenses, policy and other conditions is a dream that will not be realized for many years."

THE POPULAR KIND OF CURTAINS
FOR NEARLY ONE-HALF PRICE

Our Drapery Department was never better stocked with the popular importations of Lace Curtains, Portieres, etc., than right now, and we want everybody in Alameda County to visit this busy department this week, and, as a special inducement we will place our entire stock of Arabian Novelty Curtains at nearly 1/2 regular price. The assortment consists of Marie Antoinette, Point de Luxe, Battenburg Insertions, etc. Just the daintiest and prettiest styles to be had and just the curtains you would buy if you were paying regular prices. But this week the prices:

Talks to Suffering Women

I have made the treatment and cure of female disorders a special study. In my office will be found a splendid equipment specially made for this work, enabling me to give immediate relief in many cases and permanent cures in most cases.

I want the ladies of this city to feel at perfect liberty to visit my office, and assume them of courteous, conscientious, painless, effective treatment. I know, by my methods, I can save many otherwise necessary operations.

NEWARK HOMES ARE WELCOMING GUESTS
NEWARK, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Thomas Kirby came from Oakland Tuesday. Miss Alma Wales, who has been visiting at the Kirby home, accompanied her.

Con Steiner is at his home again, and is but little, if any, better than when he went to the hills.

Dominic Rose is in town from Mendocino county and will remain at the family home for a little time.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving of Oakland came Saturday and were the guests of Mrs. Fred Burt, attending the bazaar with her during the afternoon.

Mrs. Willard Lovjoy of San Jose was here on Wednesday, the guest of Mrs. Harry Favor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Terrill took a trip to San Francisco on Thursday. Mr. Terrill had an attack of heart failure last week, which at the time

73 FORTUNATE PIANO BUYERS
Building Delays Deprive Eilers Music Company of Big Store for Many Months
MAGNIFICENT EXHIBITION STOCK OF PIANOS TO BE SOLD AT TREMENDOUS PRICE REDUCTIONS, TO SAVE EXPENSE AND INSURANCE Remarkable Method of Testing Efficiency of Newspaper Advertising—First 73 Piano Buyers to Have a Cash Bonus of $67.95

"The greatest opportunity ever known for the piano buyer." This has been the verdict of every one of the many people who have visited the Eilers stores during the past three days. Only unusual conditions could make possible such a remarkable sale of high grade pianos for less money than is usually paid for medium grade instruments.

A piano sale is frequently a pretense for getting rid of cheap, undesirable makes of pianos. The present occasion is noteworthy in this that the pianos now being sold at the Eilers Music Company's store constitute without doubt the finest selection of high grade instruments ever brought to the coast.

It was our plan at this time to be installed in the big Market street store that is being built for our permanent quarters. We had expected to make it by long odds the finest music store on the coast and we ordered a stock of pianos that very best that American factories could produce, so that they might be in keeping with the magnificence of the quarters we were to occupy. Delayed for months in the completion of the building, this splendid array of artistic pianos must be sold and sold quickly, for it would be almost criminal to carry such a valuable stock of pianos with entirely inadequate insurance.

A $21,000 Saving

We are going to sell at once this fine line of pianos, whose value amounts to over $22,000, at prices below what dealers usually pay for them, a discount of over 33-1/3 per cent. In other words, the entire lot has been marked to sell for a little over $14,000.

Piano buyers now make a saving of over one-third the price of any piano or Autopiano they may select.

But this is not all. We propose to set aside an additional $2000 in newspaper Advertising Coupons, which will be given to each one of the first 73 persons buying pianos from any of our various stores. A small percentage of our sales each year is set aside for advertising purposes. Since the fire the circulations of the various papers have changed and in making this special reduction upon 73 pianos we propose that it shall give us a definite idea of which newspapers of San Francisco have the greatest advertising value.

Newspaper Advertising Test

On page 23 of this paper you will find an Advertising Test Coupon. Cut out this coupon, present it at any one of the Eilers stores, either at 1075 Clay street, Oakland; 1136 Van Ness avenue, 1220 Fillmore street, San Francisco; Shattuck avenue and Bancroft Way, Berkeley; Stockton, San Jose, Cal., or Reno, Nev., and it will be accepted the same as $67.95 cash towards the purchase of any one of these fine pianos in addition to the reduced prices already referred to. But remember, that only 73 of these coupons will be accepted and you will be fortunate to be one of the first 73.

No matter what your wants or your tastes may be, we can satisfy every demand, as this sale includes 40 different makes of well-known pianos. The beautiful

Mail Orders

Our Mail Order Department has grown to be a very important part of our business. Hundreds of people living outside of the city, where we have no stores, are every year buying pianos from us by mail. This service is so exacting and conscientious that we are every week asked to select and ship pianos to people whom we have never seen, but who have learned from their friends of the care exercised in our Mail Order Department.

Every person purchasing by mail or telegraph has the services of an expert piano man with years of experience in piano factories and we have never yet failed to more than please such customers.

The Eilers Guarantee

Every piano sold, whether in the city or outside, carries with it the famous Eilers guarantee, which means your money back if you are not satisfied. We will ship a piano to your home without one cent of expense on your part in case you decide it is not thoroughly satisfactory.

Remember that this remarkable sale of pianos closes on the night of November 3. Eilers Music Company, 1075 Clay street, Oakland; 1136 Van Ness avenue, 1220 Fillmore street, San Francisco; Shattuck avenue and Bancroft Way, Berkeley; Stockton, San Jose, Eureka, Cal., Reno, Nev.

For Crowded Homes
Our bed dayports offer suggestive ideas for the crowded homes. They are well made, well finished from good materials. Come in quarter-sawn oak and mahoganyized birch. In all shades of upholstery. Ordinarily they have a very imposing dayport effect, but quickly and easily they can be made into a full-sized bed. Every one has a handy wardrobe box underneath.
